No Tax Jump Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—A major reduction in the federal government's budgetary deficit from what was forecast last year makes it more likely that Finance Minister Edgar Benson will be able to balance the budget this year without a major increase in taxes this spring. Benson confirmed in an interview Tuesday that the considerable improvement in revenues and reduced spending "certainly makes it no more difficult to achieve a balance."

He repeated it is still his intention to balance the budgetary accounts by next March 31. The deficit for the 1968-69 fiscal year ended March 31 was reported in the minister's pre-budget white paper, tabled in the Commons Tuesday, at

$566,000,000. This compared with an actual deficit in 1967-68 of $794,800,000—the second highest on record—and a forecast deficit of $675,000,000 which he made last Oct. 22. The white paper called for continuing restraint on spend-

Language Bill: 'Now I Know My Friends' Says Stanfield

Prairie Tories Revolt

By MARJORIE NICHOLS

OTTAWA (Special) — Robert Stanfield is facing the first major crisis of his leadership in the wake of a Commons vote Tuesday night which saw 17 members of the 72-man Conservative caucus break party line to vote against the official languages bill.

The 17 Tories, including former prime minister John Diefenbaker, cast the only votes against the controversial bill, which was given second reading by an overwhelming majority of 197 to 17.

Diefenbaker, 73, was ousted at a 1967 party leadership convention which elected Stanfield as his successor. But some Conservatives have never recognized the change in leadership. The rebels who voted against Stanfield's wishes and against the bill comprised all five Conservatives from Manitoba, all five from Saskatchewan, six from Alberta and one, Robert Coates, from Nova Scotia.

MORE REBELS

The number of defections from the party policy as laid down by Stanfield was greater than the Tories had expected. They had hoped that at least six Prairie MPs would stay out of the Commons and thus reduce the vote against the bill to 10 or 11.

Stanfield took the blow philosophically.

"It's great to know who your friends are," he told reporters.

STILL DRAMATIC

While second reading votes have been de-emphasized under new Commons rules — they were formerly considered approval in principle — Tuesday's vote was in keeping with the tradition of dramatic second readings.

The bill now goes to committee for possible amendments before third reading and the final passage test. Stanfield and the 40 other Conservatives who rose to vote for the bill were given a thundering round of applause from government, Creditiste and NDP benches.

As the caucus rebels rose one by one to register their disapproval, the Conservative leaders sat silently, staring straight ahead at the Liberal benches.

What embittered several members of the pro-Stanfield group was the fact that it was

Blaze Traps 200

NEW YORK (AP) — A smoky, flash fire disabled a Penn Central railway train Tuesday, trapping 200 commuters deep in a tunnel under the Hudson River. One man was reported killed and 92 persons were injured.

The passengers, trapped momentarily in the darkened and smoke-clogged tunnel, flung open windows and doors and leaped to the ground. They groped cautiously on catwalks, some for as long as 40 minutes, to the New Jersey side of the tunnel.

Police identified the dead man as Will J. Thompson, 63, of Rahway, N.J., a railroad conductor on sick leave, who was riding as a passenger.

THIRD RAIL

Police said Thompson touched a live third rail after leaving the burning train.

The injured, most suffering minor injuries and smoke inhalation, were treated at five New Jersey hospitals. Some passengers were treated at the scene while others were placed aboard special trains and sent to Newark where a large number of ambulances was assembled.

SHORT CIRCUIT

Police said the fire apparently started from a short circuit in the second car.

All traffic through the tunnel in and out of New York was halted, delaying trains to and from Washington, among others.

For the most part, the passengers kept calm and walked single file along the catwalks to safety. The first ones out of the tunnel climbed a steep hill to a nearby highway and called for police help.

Racing Barns Burn

VANCOUVER (CP)—Firemen early today were fighting a three-alarm blaze in the stable area of Exhibition Park, on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

At least 10 fire engines were at the scene, and flames were shooting more than 100 feet in the air.

About 600 thoroughbreds are stabled in the area, some of which were reported running loose.

At least two stabling barns were ablaze, but it was believed all of the horses were led to safety.

Towing Epic Starts

Despite slight troubles at beginning of journey, giant oil drilling rig SEDCO 135-F moves down Alberni Inlet on way to New Zealand. Shift breezes, and minor towing problems, delayed tug Willem Barvaert from starting voyage from Port Alberni Monday. However both tug and rig were reported doing well Tuesday. Rig, which was built in Victoria, will have to cover 8,000 miles before reaching destination.—(Agnes Flett)

Snowy Mt. Baker

Car and Skis Search Clue

GLACIER, Wash. (AP) — A 10-man search party encountered blowing snow on the southwest side of Mt. Baker Tuesday while combing the 10,778-foot peak for four Vancouver residents missing since Sunday.

But volunteers from the B.C. search and rescue team and the Whatcom County Rescue Council reported finding a car believed to have been used by the four and some skis. The car was found at the end of a forestry road and the skis were located further up the mountain.

The four were dressed in ski clothes, but it was not known whether they carried food, Kirkland said.

After Coup Comes Treason Trials

Sudan Corruption Charged

CAIRO (UPI) — The revolutionary government of Sudan, describing the United States as a "threat" to Arabs, announced Wednesday it will put deposed government ministers and military officers on trial for alleged corruption.

Other opponents of the regime will be punished for treason, it said.

An official statement broadcast over Khartoum radio also said new premier Abubaker Awadallah's government, which seized power Sunday, had recognized communist East Germany and met for undisclosed reasons with the Red Chinese charge d'affaires.

The Middle East News Agency reported from Khartoum, meanwhile, that East Germany responded by offering to supply arms to the Sudan.

Al Ahran, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper, interviewed the military strongman of the new regime, Col. Gaafar El-Numeyri, and quoted him as saying "we shall shortly create civilian and military courts before which those accused of bribery and corruption will stand trial." He said the defendants would include deposed government members and senior army officers dismissed for opposition to the coup.

Khartoum radio delivered the criticism of the U.S. and West Germany in one of a string of broadcasts that brought the outside world up to date on

Negro Runner Losing In Los Angeles Vote

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Incumbent Sam Yorty surged ahead of city councilman Thomas Bradley today in a bitterly fought mayoralty election.

Partial returns at midnight from 1,221 of the city's 2,890 voting stations gave Yorty 54.81 per cent to Bradley's 45.18 per cent. The tally was Yorty 196,230, Bradley 161,725.

City clerk Rex Layton estimated that close to 80 per cent of the 1,127,224 registered voters had cast ballots in a record-smashing turnout.

It was the greatest vote for a municipal election in Los Angeles history. The previous high was 66 per cent in the primary election of the same mayoral race April 1.

Los Angeles voters gave their verdict after a bruising campaign in which Bradley's race was a major factor. Yorty urged voters to "keep Los Angeles the way we want it." He predicted mass resignations from the largely white police department if Bradley — a retired police lieutenant — captured the mayor's office.

PRICKLY CHARGE
Yorty also questioned Bradley's ability to keep order "on the campuses and in the community," a prickly charge in a city still living down the Watts riots of 1965.

Bradley, the Texas-born son of a Pullman car porter, trained his fire on alleged corruption during Yorty's second four-year term in city hall.

Space Sounds 'Blasphemy'

• Mars? Maybe in 10 years. Page 30.

MIAMI (AP)—The Apollo 10 astronauts carried the "language of the atheist" to the moon, a Bible college president charged Tuesday. He called on them to repent their "prowfany, vulgarity and blasphemy."

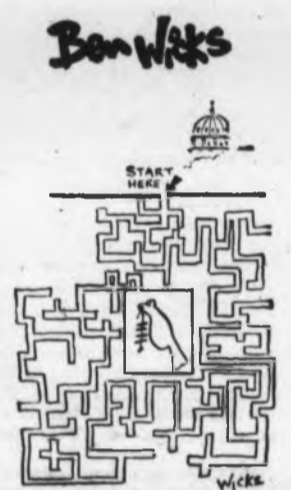

Dr. Larry Poland, president of non-denominational Miami Bible College, said he sent a telegram to President Nixon and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration asking that the three astronauts apologize for their language.

"I've gotten calls from many people who were astounded that they were broadcasting things like that 240,000 miles from the moon when it's the kind of language you expect to see on the restroom wall," Poland said. "It was in serious bad taste and indiscreet, I felt.

Poland, in his telegram, asked that "each astronaut who used such language be required to issue a public statement of apology . . . and I further request that all military and civil decoration of these men be withheld until such public apology is made."

U.S. Quits Bloody Mountain

SAIGON (AP) — United States paratroopers today abandoned Dong Ap Bia, a 3,000-foot mountain they seized a week ago in a battle that touched off a storm of controversy. (See earlier story Page 3.)

Troopers of the 101st Airborne Division seized the mountain May 20 after 10 days of bloody fighting that cost 50 Americans killed and 300 wounded.

The American casualties stirred criticism of the assault in Congress, but the U.S. command claimed it was a "fine operation" with more than 600 North Vietnamese soldiers killed.

The paratroopers "have completed their search of the mountain and now are continuing their reconnaissance in force mission through the A Shau Valley," a spokesman for the 101st Airborne Division said.

Good Move

IT OCCURS TO ME...

THAT Air Canada did a fair piece of public relations work after the mechanists' strike was settled. They offered a $300, interest-free loan to all employees, that could be paid back out of earnings at so much a month. Shows that this big business venture still retains the human touch and that it did have the interest of its employees at heart...

THAT many of you are probably wondering how you will be able to live in your present home, say five years from now. If this year's tax bill is any indication, then many of you will be looking elsewhere for shelter. And if the myth of cheap taxes in Oak Bay hasn't been completely shattered, it should be. Even with W. A. C. Bennett's increased grant, most homeowners will be paying quite a bit bigger tax chunk this year...

THAT just about every tree lover now should be convinced that the beautiful Monterey Cypress is not hardy enough for even our warm climate. Literally hundreds of these trees are nothing but fire hazards in our area today as a result of the crippling cold of January. Tony Walner, owner of the Cedar Hill Nurseries, lost a magnificent 15-year-old, 12-foot-high cypress hedge and there are countless others in our area that have been killed. One bad snap is enough to kill even mature specimens, so the advice is, plant something a little harder...

THAT there was a bit of conflict at Tillicum drive-in theatre last week. They had a bill featuring two restricted movies, yet the advertising for their price structure read "students $1.00." Restricted means persons under 18, but there are also many students under 18. Also, I fail to see how a drive-in theatre staff has the time to check every car for occupants who might be under the age limit...

THAT the high-falutin' sport task report, which slammed the National Hockey League recently, was headed by Harold Rea, who is Carl Brewer's father-in-law...

THAT the society for the preservation of lefthanders will make much of the fact that when astronaut Neil Armstrong sets foot on the moon, he'll do so with his left foot first. Why, I don't know, but that's the scripted procedure...

THAT contracts between union and management aren't really worth any more than a contract between a coach and a sporting club. The team must abide by it, the coach can break it almost any time he wants. If a company has contracts with more than one union and if one union goes out on strike, then the other unions refuse to cross the picket lines, therefore going back on their signed agreement. I don't say all unions do this, but many do, making the contract a one-way street...

THAT for an evening of enjoyment in a beautiful setting, you'd have to travel a long way to match the splendours of the minor league baseball setup out at Laysville Park. I wonder how many of us take such an idyllic setting for granted and fail to appreciate the beauty. This born and bred stubble-jumper remembers the dullness of flat, tree-devoid prairies too much to take any of the glories of B.C. nature for granted...

THAT Robert Baird will certainly not go unopposed in the race for the mayoralty of Victoria. If no other challengers show up, look for Hugh Stephen to run once again...

Plenty of Help Needed For Hyperkinetic Child

By G. T. THOSTESON, MD

I beg the indulgence of readers who may not be personally concerned with today's remarks on the hyperkinetic (or overactive) child, but it is of such great importance to parents of such children that one more reference to the matter seems imperative.

From all over the country have come letters. Many say, in effect, "We didn't know what was wrong with our child, but he fits your description exactly."

Others have written that at last, knowing what to look for, they are getting effective treatment for such children.

STILL OTHERS

Still others, and to them this is particularly addressed, continue to write letters like this one:

Dear Doctor: In your article about the hyperkinetic child, you mention that there are just a few doctors able to diagnose this problem. As we are not in a position to just go from one doctor to another, we would appreciate your recommending a doctor in our area, M.F.

The problem exists everywhere, but people are puzzled as to where to go for help.

It is not quite correct to say that "just a few" physicians can diagnose this condition. A good many can — but it is not a skill that is possessed generally. It requires special training.

ONE DOCTOR

But finding such a physician decidedly should not entail "going from one doctor to another." The county medical society is an excellent source, almost anywhere in the country, to be referred to for a physician familiar with this problem. And the many child guidance clinics are ideal places.

department, and particularly if it has a psychiatric service.

People in smaller communities may well have to go to one of the cities — but I was delighted to learn of a pediatrician in a Michigan community of under 20,000 taking some special post-graduate training in this field because he saw so many youngsters who needed such care.

It is always proper to ask your regular physician to find the nearest source of diagnosis and treatment.

The hyperkinetic child is one who just can't sit still, can't help jittering, annoying others, talking when he should be still, and wasting his own super-charged energies. He isn't "bad." He can't help it. He is a distraction in school, a problem at home.

No Increase Likely in Tax

ing by all governments and said rising prices and costs, together with high regional unemployment, continue to plague the economy. But it should roll on this year to match or exceed the real growth of 4.7 per cent achieved in 1968.

Benson, in corridor interviews after tabling the white paper in the Commons, said the government's freeze on civil service growth has been effective and will continue for the present at least.

He also said he is concerned about the inflationary pressures that the construction industry is exerting in Ontario. But he did not want to limit house-building activity.

In the Commons, Benson said the best way to bring down high interest rates — which he called a world-wide phenomenon — is to control inflation in the Western countries.

He rejected a suggestion by David Lewis (NDP — York South) that the six-per-cent ceiling be reimposed on chartered bank loans. Reimposing the ceiling would not reduce interest rates but would dry up the flow of funds now available for borrowing at higher rates, Benson said.

George Hees (PC — Northumberland) asked how it is that Australia can provide mortgage funds at five per cent. Benson did not reply.

The minister will present his spring budget to the Commons next Tuesday night, June 3. It is expected to be mainly a tidying-up budget, in preparation for a general overhaul of tax law next fall and winter.

The white paper reviewed the economic boom which has prevailed since 1961, with a period of readjustment in 1967, and said concerning 1969:

"The prospects are favorable for a growth in gross national product at least equal to that of 1968. While price changes will still be significant, the growth in real output should equal or exceed that of last year.

"The unemployment rate should average a bit below that of 1968, and employment will move up faster than in that year."

But the review added: "Price increases are still higher than desirable. As amongst the various geographic regions, pressure on resources could be strong in Ontario, while in the eastern part of Canada unemployment and lower levels of income remain matters of major concern.

"Problems in the farm sector are aggravated by high levels of grain inventories both at home and abroad."

The white paper reported that total expenditure of all levels of government was $23,543,000,000 last year, compared with $10,784,000,000 in 1960-61.

It said that while 1968 expenditures were 10.3 per cent higher than in 1967, this actually represented restraint because it was a "deceleration" from the 15-per-cent increase that prevailed in 1967.

A new section of the white paper was devoted to regional differences in the economy. It said new supplements to the more traditional economic instruments of fiscal and monetary policy need to be developed.

Fiscal policy involves tax and spending decisions by governments, monetary policy affects credit and interest rates. The white paper said additional tools are needed to deal with excessive inflationary pressures in some areas, while jacking up industrial activity in others.

The white paper also noted that for four years price increases in the service sector of the economy have exceeded price rises in goods-producing industry. Wage costs in the service industries tend to be more directly reflected in prices than those in the goods industries.

The $566,000,000 deficit for 1968-69 is a preliminary figure, subject to some adjustment when final accounts for the year are settled. However, it is added to the net debt position, which on March 31, 1969, stood at $16,700,000,000 compared with $16,326,000,000 at March 31, 1968. This amounts to a per capita debt for all Canadians, for the federal treasury alone, of $24.77, compared with $20.66 a year ago.

West Tories Revolt

the rebels who forced the formal vote. All party agreement had been reached for a voice vote.

QUICK JUMP

As the speaker ruled that the "ayes" were in the majority, Conservative Jack Horner from the Alberta riding of Crowfoot, and four other westerners jumped to their feet, thus forcing a recorded vote. Under the new rules, the minimum needed to force a formal vote is five.

Some members of the Tory caucus who had been only lukewarm about the bill, but who had agreed to follow Stanfield for the sake of party unity, had been assured they wouldn't have to stand and be counted on a roll call vote.

During the afternoon as the debate on the bill dragged on, Horner skipped in and out of the House, apparently rounding up enough support to force the vote.

The vote had been expected shortly after 4 p.m., but supporters of the bill kept the debate going until after 5:30 to enable Stanfield to get back to the House. The Conservative leader, who had been in Edmonton on a speaking tour, was whisked directly from Ottawa's airport in 33 minutes to the Commons chamber.

Rumors had circulated through the corridors that Diefenbaker would not show up for the vote. Shortly before the division bells stopped ringing, however, the former Conservative leader entered the House.

He stopped and talked to NDP Leader Tommy Douglas, and all but ignored his neighbors in the Conservative front benches.

Because of his seat position in the front row, Diefenbaker was the first to stand and vote against the measure. As the former Tory leader rose, there were a few heckles from across the aisle, but as the rest of the dissidents stood to register their disagreement with party policy, there was almost dead silence.

ROUNDS OF APPLAUSE

Earlier, however, as the affirmative votes were recorded, there were rounds of applause from both sides of the house as several freshmen Conservatives from the Prairies joined Stanfield.

Though obviously shaken by the fact that almost a quarter of his caucus broke ranks, the outcome of the vote came as no real surprise to the Tory leader.

SOME ARGUMENT

Many of the westerners had expressed reservations about the constitutionality of the bill, which provides for establishment of bilingual districts across the country and declares that all government services should be provided in both languages.

Bilingual districts will be established wherever 10 per cent or more of the population speaks the official language not spoken by the majority.

THE VOTERS

Following are the Conservatives, other than Diefenbaker and Horner who opposed the bill:

Whites Chastised By Negro Judge

NEW YORK (UPI) — A Negro criminal court judge chastised a predominantly white group of Brooklyn College students for a sit-in in behalf of black demands and told them "none of you have permission to fight my battles."

Judge Albert R. Murray sentenced 34 students, 11 of them girls, to five days in jail.

"I don't know who appointed you to defend the cause of the Negro," Murray said. "What you are doing isn't helping the fight against racism. This country is worse off today than it was a year ago because you have polarized the situation.

"I've seen both sides of the coin," added the judge, a native of Harlem, Ga. "I don't know anywhere in the world better than the United States of America, and I've been as low as any of you." Spectators in the courtroom broke into spontaneous applause when Murray finished.

Chicago Probe:

Mental Hospital Crime Rampant

CHICAGO (Reuters) — Two Chicago mental hospitals are hotbeds of murder, arson, rape, prostitution, theft, drugs and gambling, an official report charged Tuesday.

A picture of terror and crime in the institutions was drawn in the report prepared by state's attorney Edward J. Hanrahan after a 60-day probe of conditions at Chicago State Hospital and Tinsley Park mental health facility.

ALL VARIETIES

"All varieties of crime were discovered to have occurred at both institutions, including murder, arson, rape, prostitution, aggravated battery, theft, narcotics traffic and gambling," Hanrahan announced.

The report said patients at the hospitals were assaulted, murdered and raped by fellow patients and employees.

It said illicit sexual activities went on "at all hours of the day and night," virtually ignored by guards. Doctors received orders not to report unusual deaths or criminal activities to the coroner's office or police, and employees with a history of mental illness and criminal activities were hired.

BAD CONDITIONS

Hanrahan, who produced the report at the request of Gov. Richard Ogilvie, attacked the administrations of both hospitals, telling a news conference security was so lax that "conditions bordered on malfeasance."

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Naran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blot disappears — how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Poher Sees No Separation

Canada, Quebec Like One

PARIS (CP) — Anti-Gaullist Alain Poher, urging a new era in French foreign policy as he campaigns for the presidency, said Tuesday he is not one to separate Quebec and Canada.

His statement, though brief to the point of being cryptic, seemed to square with earlier repudiation by a spokesman for his Democratic Centre party of any French policies that would provoke Ottawa.

Poher, leading rival to Gaullist Georges Pompidou in next month's two-stage election, was reluctant to be drawn out on Franco-Canadian relations during a news conference at which his campaign program was unveiled.

Prior to the initial round of voting June 1, he is concerned exclusively with national issues, he explained.

But pressed for an answer on the Franco-Canadian issue, the interim president said with some show of impatience that he has many friends in Canada and in Quebec.

"I do not separate one from the other," he added in further reference to Quebec and Canada.

The Tuesday statement by Poher was the first mention of Canada most observers could recall being made during the campaign by either Poher or Pompidou.

Poher's campaign program, aimed at highlighting the differences between himself and Pompidou on everything from NATO to control of French national television, drew loud criticism from Gaullists, who contend that their chief opponent is dealing in more generalities.

Pompidou himself, speaking Tuesday in Nice, conceded that de Gaulle's departure will mean changes for France.

But he insisted that these should not mean a return to the kind of governmental instability that plagued the old Fourth Republic.

Poher argued that election of himself, a development considered more possible in the June 15 second round of voting than in the first, would mean much greater French devotion to European unity, re-commitment to a reformed NATO and renewed talks about British entry into the Common Market.

Aid to developing countries, he said, could be less costly and more efficient if given as part of a general European and international effort.

He also wants abolition of the French ministry of information, long alleged to be a centre for Gaullist control of the state broadcasting system's news services.

Astronaut's Debriefing

Tapes Will Teach Lessons To Lunar-Landing Squad

HOUSTON (AP) — The Apollo 10 astronauts returned home Tuesday from their moon scouting adventure and immediately began recording the lunar knowledge they obtained to prepare the Apollo 11 crew for a moon landing.

After a hero's welcome the astronauts began recounting their experiences on the eight-day flight that took Thomas Stafford and Eugene Cernan to within 9.4 miles of the moon's surface.

Stafford, Cernan and John Young will spend 11 days talking into tape recorders and reviewing every step of their flight.

The Apollo 11 crew, scheduled to attempt a moon landing in July, must have the data and recollections of Stafford, Cernan and Young to cut the risks of their flight.

Without the Apollo 10 experience, officials have said, a moon landing would be too risky to attempt.

Apollo 11's launch is scheduled for July 16, but officials said a final decision on the date will not be made for two or three weeks. They said the flight may be delayed until August if questions arise in training the Apollo 11 crew because of the knowledge gained on Apollo 10.

States Air Force transport into the arms of their families.

While an air force band serenaded them with Up, Up and Away, other astronauts and space officials welcomed back the three men.

"I'm convinced now more than ever," Cernan said, "that there's no place that we can't eventually go, and there's nothing that we can't eventually do because of the talent that we've got in this great country of ours."

Cernan, Stafford and Young had flown 12 hours non-stop from Pago Pago, American Samoa, and looked rested and spirited. The men had landed from space in the South Pacific 400 miles from Pago Pago.

subcommittee it was not technologically feasible now to plan a space flight to Mars.

"Maybe in 10, 15, 20 years it would be possible, depending upon budgetary problems as well as technological problems and developments," he said.

But DuBridge said he believed Mars was the only other planet in this solar system on which man could survive and, therefore, it was the only one to which manned flight would be considered.

"Venus might be contemplated but landing on Venus would be suicide because of the very high temperatures of the surface of the planet with any technologies that we now possess," DuBridge said.

DuBridge, president of the California Institute of Technology before he became White House adviser, said any flight to Mars would require at least a year.

"What about all these things that we have heard about tractors on the moon, or hotels on the moon?" asked Rep. Louis Wyman (R-N.H.).

"I think equipment on the moon can be landed in the next few years but not to cultivate the moon, grow crops. This is obviously unfeasible," replied DuBridge.

"But equipment for exploration, digging into the crust, seeing what is there, transporting men from point to point around the moon by various technologies is entirely possible."

"So some equipment may be landed on the moon, but the idea of digging excavations for building Hilton Hotels on the moon is extremely unlikely."

Russian Talks

Israel Hears Rare Voice Of Criticism

JERUSALEM (UPI) — U.S. Senator Jacob Javits criticized Israel Tuesday for failing to appreciate America's problems in "living with the Soviet Union."

In a rare public indication of disagreement between Israel and the United States, Javits said Israel's Premier Golda Meir had made it clear that the American-Russian talks in Washington would not be productive or lead to peace.

"I did not find adequate appreciation in Israel of the problems facing the United States to find a way of living with the Soviet Union," said the New York Republican.

Javits' press conference, which wound up a three-day visit to Israel, coincided with reports that Mrs. Meir has postponed plans for a Washington visit.

The Israeli premier recently said she would welcome a chance to confer with President Nixon in Washington.

Government sources said Tuesday that, while Mrs. Meir was anxious to meet Nixon to express Israel's apprehensions over the big power talks, she did not want to risk a cold reception.

The Meir government faces an election in October, and the 71-year-old grandmother favored making the trip only if there were signs that substantial progress could be made, the sources said.

Asked why the U.S. entered into the big power talks and why the Middle East had been singled out as the first issue, Javits said Nixon had probably "yielded" in order to agree on an agenda.

"The Soviet Union was anxious to have this discussed before other things," the senator said. "Nixon had to yield something in order to have an agreed upon agenda for discussions of many things."

"The U.S. may have been willing to yield on this point in exchange for Russian concessions on matters of substance,"

Saigon Outlines Limits Marking Peace Search

PARIS (UPI) — South Vietnam's chief negotiator at the Vietnam peace talks said Tuesday there are "limits we will not cross" in the search for a peaceful solution of the Vietnam war.

Ambassador Pham Dang Lam spelled out some of the "limits" in a speech to foreign correspondents. They included a refusal of any sort of "coalition government" in Saigon as demanded by the Communist side, or an acceptance of communism.

South Vietnam's position, he said, was "peace in freedom, yes, but peace at any price, that is to say any price at all, no."

"For these reasons, and for many others, there exists in our country a search for peace limits we will not cross," he said.

Lam did not say what the "many others" were, but went on to quote from President Nixon's May 14 speech in which he offered America's eight-point peace plan for Vietnam.

The passage Lam emphasized was the one in which Nixon said a U.S. pullout of the war would be followed by a risk of "massacre" of millions of South Vietnamese men, women and children.

Lam also quoted the Nixon passage that the abandoning of the South Vietnamese people would also threaten world peace and that a "great nation" cannot repudiate its commitments.

Lam said there were still "fundamental differences" between the allied and communist sides at the conference.

Czech Fugitives Given Invitation to Return

Svoboda

PRAQUE (Reuters) — President Ludvik Svoboda announced Tuesday an amnesty for term of imprisonment of citizens who left Czechoslovakia illegally during the last year, Prague radio reported.

The amnesty, however, is on condition that Czechoslovaks either return or legalize their residence abroad with Czechoslovak authorities before Sept. 15.

Official figures held by the Czechoslovak interior ministry show some 40,000 Czechoslovaks are living abroad and about 15,000 of them have applied for permanent residence permits in foreign countries.

Many of the Czechoslovaks fled the country at the time of the Soviet-led invasion in August but thousands more were simply abroad on vacation and decided not to return home.

BECAUSE OF THEM

"It's because of them that we are able to have such a fantastic mission," he said. "And it's because of them that we're able to come back here to you today and say it's great to be back."

To Rouse Home Reaction

North Boosts U.S. Losses

SAIGON (AP) — The United States command said Tuesday that North Vietnamese in the so-called demilitarized zone have recently increased their shelling of American positions in northern South Vietnam, leading some U.S. officers to conclude the aim is to inflict casualties to influence public opinion in the U.S.

"They're trying to increase our casualties to get the people back home up in arms to hurry up our withdrawal," said one spokesman for the U.S. command. "It's part of their overall strategy."

Four of the shellings came Sunday and one of them killed eight U.S. marines and wounded 24 others in the worst zone incident since the U.S. bombing was halted, the command spokesman reported.

The spokesman said shellings from the zone increased at the same time that the Communist command conducted rocket and mortar attacks against more than 200 South Vietnamese towns and U.S. and allied military positions May 11.

FAR MORE ATTACKS

In all, there have been 21 North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks from inside the zone since May 12, compared with only three in the previous two months, the U.S. command reported.

Operational reports from U.S. headquarters say that 13 Americans have been killed and 89 wounded in North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks from within the zone since Nov. 1.

In the same period, 235 North Vietnamese troops have been listed as killed inside the zone by U.S. artillery, air strikes, naval gunfire and ground action.

Meanwhile, Associated Press correspondent Robert D. Ohman reported that there were indications U.S. forces will abandon Ap Bia Mountain in northwestern South Vietnam within a week or two.

The mountain was captured a week ago in a bloody battle that drew criticism from the U.S. Congress, particularly from Senator Edward M. Kennedy (Dem.-Mass.), who called the loss of U.S. lives the result of "irresponsible action."

About 50 U.S. soldiers were killed in the battle for Ap Bia that by American account cost the North Vietnamese 649 killed.

Two Phased Policy

WHEN PRIME MINISTER Pierre Trudeau announced his decision last month to reduce Canada's military commitment to NATO in Europe, he carefully avoided mentioning numbers involved in the proposed withdrawal.

He did, however, state that the operation would be both "planned and phased" and that he considered the actual size of the reduction of Canada's armed forces in Europe to be "Phase II" of his new defence policy.

Those who oppose his plan, including a large number of senior military officers, are now openly condemning the prime minister's policy as being "two phased."

Should Canadians believe that if Canada has a moral obligation to remain a member of NATO she also has a moral obligation to pay her subscription in terms of fighting men and facilities available for an emergency and as part of the deterrent, then this play on words is particularly apt, especially in the light of recent reports from Brussels which indicate that the Canadian forces cutback will be "drastic."

It is said that Mr. Trudeau is still searching for the rest of his defence policy and when he finds it he will report to Parliament. He may be helped in his quest if he reads a recent statement made by Australian Prime Minister John Gorton in the Canberra House of Representatives on the same subject:

"... as a nation we expect to be given protection in time of danger. And we must therefore expect to give assistance in return. What sort of pusillanimous, unworthy nation would it be that said, 'We rely on you to protect us—but oh no, we won't incur the slightest risk to help you protect yourselves, and us, and others.' This government (Australia) will not say that."

Will Canada?

Elk Lake Rules

THE NEW RULES proposed for power boats on Elk Lake are reasonable and give promise of being effective. The suggested regulations call for the issuance of free permits to operators of boats of more than 10 horsepower wishing to use the lake, to provide a check on their identity; for a buoyed-off central area in the lake to which these boats will be confined, and for a counter-clockwise rotation system for water-skiing. But most important, a penalty of boat impoundment is recommended for offences, including failure to obtain a permit.

Given the proper measure of enforcement, this ought to be enough to curb those whose bent is to use the lake as if there were no one else on, in or around it.

However, it is hinted that if the summer's experience is deemed unsatisfactory, the power-boats and the water-skiers will have to go. And this too is fair and reasonable. The fast boats and water skiers need much more space per participant than the other users of the lake, and if they will not use it safely and responsibly without annoying and sometimes even terrorizing the others, they deserve to lose the privilege.

Not of No Kind

THE STORY may be apocryphal about the canner of pale-fleshed salmon who gained business by advertising that this product contained no red coloring. But it conforms enough with human nature to be true.

Nevertheless, it is somewhat surprising to learn that a proposal in the United States to ease the regulation of the amount of chicken meat in weiners, frankfurters and the like is arousing public antagonism.

The present rule is that if any chicken is used, packages must say so in large letters. The proposal is that up to 15 per cent of the sausage content may be chicken without mention except in the small-print list of ingredients.

Considering mankind's eternal doubts about the contents of sausages, one would have thought most consumers would be delighted to find chicken as an ingredient and makers equally happy to boast about it.

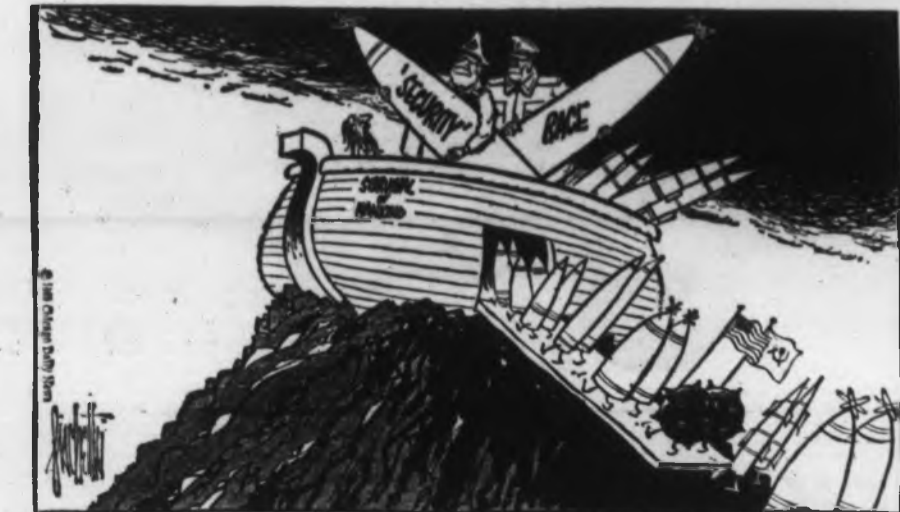

But perhaps there are more people than we suspect like the New York woman who wrote, in protest, "I don't eat feather meat of no kind."

An Uneasy Place for Robert Thompson?

By GREG CONNOLLEY, Colonel Ottawa Bureau

WHATEVER happened to Robert Thompson, the one-time darling of Social Credit and the man who looked like $1,000,000 on television? Remember that rather handsome face and winning smile? Remember the man who brought down the Diefenbaker government in 1963?

Yes, he joined the Conservatives before the 1968 general election, got elected and sits in the middle row of the Tories in the Commons.

He is just a few seats away from John Diefenbaker, the man he threw out of the prime minister's office in that crucial vote six years ago.

Mr. Thompson says Mr. Diefenbaker isn't mad at him anymore. "He regards me as a sinner who has repented and come home."

The Conservative party is home for Bob Thompson but some people wonder if it is an uneasy place for him. He claims to feel perfectly content with the Tories and affirms that everyone is cordial.

"I was always a small-Conservative anyway," Mr. Thompson advises. Yet he has not rejected all Social Credit theory and thinks a good deal of this doctrine makes sense.

The most fascinating thing about Bob Thompson now is that quite a number of citizens in the western provinces have asked him to head a new party representing the Prairies in the Commons.

"I have had these requests to unify the political forces in the West as a single voice in Ottawa. This obviously is a reflection of the unhappiness of western people with what is happening in Ottawa."

Mr. Thompson said he did not think a new party was the answer to current problems. But he felt that the next six months might be a critical time in political developments in the Prairies.

He noted the efforts of Creditiste leader René Caouette to get a national Social Credit movement going again.

"He didn't make much of an impression and frankly I don't see any hope for a revived Social national party."

But Mr. Thompson was to add the significant comment that if the Conservatives don't provide a viable alternative to the Liberals at Ottawa, "somebody else will." Just who would spark this movement and how, he did not know.

One doesn't hear Bob Thompson too often in the Commons nowadays. He does more work outside, at Tory meetings and at universities. He is still in great demand as a speaker and talked to over 200 meetings in the past year.

He still is convinced that when he threw his Social Credit strength against Mr. Diefenbaker in 1963 and defeated him, he had followed the right course of action.

At that time Mr. Thompson had asked Mr. Diefenbaker to bring in a budget and outline a program of action for the nation. There were urgent negotiations to make a deal but they failed and down went the Tories.

For a man who did that to the Conservative Party, Thompson has done wonders in establishing himself in that political organization. He got the Tory nomination in Red Deer and rolled up a handsome victory.

"If I had another election today, my margin would be even bigger," he asserts.

***

Mr. Thompson says one of his strengths is that he knows and fully understands the unhappiness in western Canada. "I get a tremendous amount of correspondence from out there — things are bad and they are talking separatism."

"If the government doesn't listen, things will get worse."

And if that new political movement did start up in the West, would Bob Thompson be available to lead it? He shakes his head but the thought must have appeal to a man who was once a national party leader and now is only an ordinary MP.

The Menace of 'Everybody'

By FRANK LOWE

DO you ever get the feeling that some great, fearsome yet anonymous glob known as "everybody" is out to get you?

Well, I do. Actually, this sensation of unspecified dread began to overcome me some years ago. It happened one lazy summer vacation morning when I was sitting on a cottage verandah watching some beautiful sailboats dip and swing on the blue ocean water in front of me.

For lack of anything better to do, I commented to my wife: "Somebody I'm going to have a sailboat. And I'm going to enter that annual race to Boston."

My wife thought about this for a moment and then replied: "If you go around talking like that, everybody will think you're crazy."

That, I believe, was the first time I became aware of that sinister "everybody" out there.

Quitting Smoking

From The Ottawa Journal

The market is full of aids of the person who wants to break the cigarette habit — special gum, and pills, and recordings to be played while sleeping, and even non-tobacco cigarettes (remember those?). Now a Massachusetts man has been granted a U.S. patent for a method involving the amoking of a series of cigarettes with progressively less nicotine and progressively more of a bitter substance. It works this way: "The inventor suggests cigarettes in four stages, starting with two-thirds tobacco and one-third smokable cellulose, of the consistency of shredded facial tissue. There is a flavoring of distaste. The final stage is all cellulose for a heavy smoker. The first stage lasts three weeks and the fourth stage only a few days, by which time the desire for smoking is gone."

It still won't beat the most sure-fire way of "kicking the habit" — stop smoking 'em!

somewhere ready to reprint and me.

But once I was aware, it seemed I couldn't turn around without bumping into the restraining influence of "everybody."

There was a time, for instance, when I toyed with the idea of entering politics. It wasn't a big thing — I merely thought I might run for one specific post in the hope that if I got it I could perform one specific task, and then retire.

Some of the neighbors were quite enthusiastic. But when I broached it to my wife, it was the same old thing.

"Everybody," she said, "would think you were kidding. It wouldn't work."

So I retired from politics earlier than anticipated.

Even ordinary, everyday projects, it seems, are mysteriously controlled and have their rules and regulations set by "everybody."

One of my long-cherished dreams, to give an example, was to own and wear a straw boater. Finally I got sufficient courage together to buy one.

I tried it on at home. It looked pretty sharp. If I do say so myself. But my wife took one look and said:

"Everybody stopped wearing those 30 years ago."

Finally things got to a point that I felt I was living in Orwell's 1984. Only instead of having one Big Brother watching my every move, I had a legion of Big Brothers, all watching and all ready to disapprove my every move.

It got so bad that even when I was alone I would feel nervous about what I was doing.

Would "everybody" think all right for me to re-read Three Men in a Boat, Not to Mention the Dog? Or would "everybody" be shocked to learn that I think a 40-year-old classic is still just about the funniest book ever written?

How would "everybody" feel if I wore one of those new, broad ties? Did "everybody" from on old-fashioned black shoes, with laces yet?

So, as a man will when he feels his back is to the wall, I rebelled. I told my wife that from now on I was going to live the way I wanted to live, and "everybody" could take a jump in the lake.

Conformity, I told her, was all right for the young and the old. But we swinging "middleagers" would go our oddball way.

Naturally, however, the problem wasn't so easy to solve. Oh yes, I got rid of "everybody."

But then I learned that like every murky bureaucracy that controls our lives, there are hidden layers.

So once I kicked out "everybody," I had "nobody" to contend with.

I mean, this is what happened:

One day, months after "everybody" had dropped from my wife's vocabulary, I mentioned that some day I would like to write a novel.

My wife turned that over in her mind for a moment and then said: "Go ahead if you want to. But nobody will read it."

See what I mean?

Quebec Discrimination

From The Globe and Mail, Toronto

Often with excellent cause, Quebecers have made themselves Canada's experts on educational injustice. Secure in their record, until recently unblemished, of tolerating minority schools in English, they could point indignant fingers at almost every other province for the mistreatment of French-speaking minorities.

Yet Quebec's peculiar system of confessional education contains a greater injustice than those afflicting French minorities in any part of Canada. In the school board elections of June 9, most of Quebec's 130,000 Jews will again be deprived of their franchise. The reason: schooling in Quebec is still officially structured to serve only Catholics and Protestants.

In the town of St. Laurent, this means that 42 per cent of local parents will have no vote in determining the kind of education their children will receive.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal has denied continued pleas to right this wrong. Ignoring three consecutive reports since 1966 urging change in the system, he tells Quebec Jews to wait for the long-discussed and long-delayed reorganization of the 42 existing school boards on Montreal Island.

Of course Mr. Cardinal is very busy just now convincing Union Nationale members that he will fight harder than anyone else to end injustice for French Canadians. A pity he finds it necessary to defend the rights of some Quebecers by trampling on the rights of others.

For surely one of the benefits of education is a sensitivity to justice as opposed to a training in how to fulfill the letter of the law. It is said that the latter appears to have prevailed when so obvious an injustice could have been righted years ago.

It is a pathetic and ironic situation.

And the White House remains silent.

Presidential Problem

High-Level Schism On University Strife

By JOHN AITKEN from Washington

THE violence sweeping across the university campuses has reaped an unexpected reward for the students who are causing it—it has created a schism in the Nixon cabinet, a bitter division of feeling that threatens to become a major national debate.

Where President Nixon himself stands remains unclear. Certainly he is for law and order, and for taking a hard line against students who resort to lawlessness and gunpoint intimidation. But he has yet to deny their cause, just as he has avoided any overt recognition of the reasons for campus unrest.

But violence cannot be ignored and the debate—in Congress and elsewhere—has become as polarized as that between hawks and doves on Vietnam.

In the case of the universities the hawks are led by such men as Vice-President Spiro Agnew and Attorney-General John Mitchell—as well as the usual collection of conservative, middle-aged congressmen. (Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, Tennessee Republican, said "The young Nazis are crawling out from under their rocks.")

The doves have found high-level spokesmen in such moderate-minded men as Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch and the new U.S. commissioner for education, Dr. James Allen. They feel it's up to the universities, not Congress, to resolve their problems.

As with so many issues that divide the United States, such polarization leads to the very rigidity that has been bothering even the more moderate students. As for the militant Students for a Democratic Society—the hard core, Marxist national group that claims 6,000 members and millions of supporters—the division at high levels must be cause for rejoicing.

The crisis of violence is aggravated by the fact that much of it is now becoming openly racial—blacks demonstrating, then backing whites, and whites gathering their own baseball bats or golf clubs and battering blacks. Sometimes the police come in and help the whites; it is a frightening situation.

Worse still, it is spreading to the high school level. Recently the National Association of Secondary School Principals announced the results of a nationwide poll. Three out of every five schools polled, they said, reported some form of active protest during the past year.

An education subcommittee has been holding hearings on the problem in Washington, and members have listened to the anguish of university presidents like Harvard's Nathan Pusey, pleading for a moratorium on federal government intervention and threats.

But there is much anger, a backlash reaction to lawlessness which once was regarded as a by-product of the ghetto and could be accepted as such, but which now threatens the Ivy League set and even the posh private girls' schools.

Congressmen tend to focus their anger on the Students for a Democratic Society, and with good cause. The SDS, founded in 1961 by a handful of students from various campuses, has spread across the country.

The fact that SDS can so candidly announce its revolutionary goals is something a red-blooded American congressman finds downright un-American. The fact that the mass support crucial to the success of an SDS-inspired demonstration comes from average, non-Marxist students, escapes them.

And when last month, 250 student leaders, student council presidents, campus editors, scholarship types and other high achievers—announced they'd go to jail rather than to war in Vietnam it was just too shocking to comprehend.

A few intellectuals—Dr. Henry Kissinger, for example—may have realized that these intelligent and clean-cut students, far from being part of a Communist plot, were sincerely obeying what they regard as higher patriotism than submitting to a uniform and the murder they feel goes with it. But whether such a reasoned reaction can be expected from the people at large is doubtful and anyway remains to be seen.

President Nixon in Key Biscayne, said White House press secretary Ronald Zeigler, discussed with top domestic advisers the whole problem of student unrest. In fact, reported Zeigler, they spent three whole hours on the subject. They didn't come up with any answers because it wasn't that kind of discussion, although he would characterize it as something higher than a presidential session, he said.

But President Nixon may be finding himself in the same sort of a bind he was in over the spy plane shot down by the North Koreans. In campaign oratory he swore that such could never happen under his administration without retaliation. When it did he found the situation unworkable.

Now the president, having made much of law and order during that same campaign, is faced with this problem:

Either he presses for stern treatment of students who seize buildings and molest their professors, which involves heavy use of federal muscle—club-swinging U.S. marshals, the national guard, the riot police—in which case he must move into federal intervention in education.

This is against states' rights and would mock the constitution as well as the students.

Or the president must exercise God-like patience and restrain Congress, permitting the faculties to solve problems they were slow to understand in the first place. In this case there will be more seizures, more fires, more clashes, all of which would make a mockery of much that he said during his campaign.

"It is a difficult position, and once again America must define her terms, specifically whether freedom of speech includes freedom to demonstrate violently. It is easy to condemn all violence as bad, but to a nation conceived in violence the condemnation becomes hypocritical, and youth has always been quick to spot and reel against hypocrisy."

The facts seem to be that while the Students for a Democratic Society are clearly and self-admittedly after a Marxist-Leninist revolutionary movement, and therefore are understandable and reprehensible to Americans, their numbers are not sufficient to do it alone.

They must have—and they are getting it—support from vast numbers of students who are simply fed up with the war in Vietnam, with campuses too interested in the Reserve Officer Training Corps, with professors more interested in military research grants than with the less lucrative business of teaching.

***

It's something like blaming the Black Panthers and the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee for racial riots. Sure, they had a hand in them, but they had a lot of support from people who weren't dedicated to destroying the system but simply found a means of expressing their rage after years of frustrated voicelessness. So it seems with the campuses.

Whether the administration and Congress can impose patience on these beleaguered men who try to run universities is one thing. Whether those faculties deserve such a patience is another.

The situation is critical and the mood is ripe for continued and escalated campus violence, presumably worsening next fall. So far no national spokesman has emerged who can shed light on the subject.

And the White House remains silent.

Injustice And the Law

From The Gazette, Montreal

The St. Laurent Protestant School board recently prepared an electoral list of those qualified to vote for candidates to the two vacant seats on the Board.

Three members of the Jewish community are petitioning the courts to direct that their names, as well as others of their faith, be included on the list.

The chairman of the board admits that he is in sympathy with the Jewish plight but that existing laws direct that only Protestants may be nominated as school trustees. The board is studying the legality of the situation but for this year feels there is no recourse but to proceed as the law dictates.

It is a pathetic and ironic situation.

For surely one of the benefits of education is a sensitivity to justice as opposed to a training in how to fulfill the letter of the law. It is said that the latter appears to have prevailed when so obvious an injustice could have been righted years ago.

Mao to Be Booted Upstairs

By EDWARD NEILAN, from Hong Kong

It is only a matter of time before Chairman Mao Tse-tung is officially designated Communist China's chief of state. The position has been officially vacant since President Liu Shao-chi was purged into political oblivion by the cultural revolution.

Experienced observers here, in making the prediction that Mao will soon get the top diplomatic designation, note that the 75-year-old chairman of the Chinese Communist Party's Central Committee has already acted in that capacity in recently accepting the credentials of new ambassadors accredited to Peking.

At the first meeting of the Politburo since the Ninth Party Congress ended, Defense Minister Lin Biao, Mao's heir apparent, suggested that Mao be elected head of state formally.

The rest of the Politburo echoed Lin's suggestion and the matter will be officially confirmed at the National People's Congress which is due to be convened in August.

The National People's Congress is the body which actually elects the head of state. The meeting is bound to be another in a series of rousing accolades to Mao leading up to the 20th anniversary of the founding of Communist China (Oct. 1, 1949).

Communist China has been technically without a head of state since Mao's arch-enemy, Liu Shao-chi, was expelled from the party and the presidency at the plenary session prior to the Ninth Party Congress.

Such technicalities seldom bother the Chinese leaders during the height of a purge but they later tend to go back and try to legalize every action within existing communist legal frameworks.

The move to formalize Mao's position as head of state is evaluated among Hong Kong diplomatic China watchers as part of a Chinese effort to regularize disrupted diplomatic ties by the time the 20th anniversary rolls around.

Several Chinese embassies abroad have been without ambassadors since the cultural revolution was at its peak in 1967.

The first ambassador appointed by China since 1965 has left Peking to take up his post in Tirana, Albania. He is Keng Piao, a veteran diplomat who has served Peking previously as ambassador to Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Pakistan and Burma.

Analysts are careful not to read too much into the shifts among Peking's elite — only the Chinese palace insiders themselves know the exact personal and power relationships — but there is a growing feeling that Lin Biao is already running the country.

Mao's stamp is still on all the directives made public but it is becoming obvious that the chairman can no longer put in a full day's work in running the affairs of state.

As head of state under a more diplomatically active Chinese foreign policy, much of his available time will be taken up with receiving ambassadors' credentials and fitting more and more into the role of figurehead.

'Continentalist' Disciples of C. D. Howe Triumph Over Economic Nationalists

By HEWARD GRAFFTEY

Through the early and mid-60s foreign control of the Canadian economy had increasingly grown into such a frenetic political issue that the current silence on the subject seems baffling and inexplicable.

The realities that gave rise to economic nationalism have not changed; indeed, more segments of our economy are slipping under foreign control every day. What has changed, however, is the political formation at the national level, with economic nationalists eclipsed by the resurrected "continentalists"—those who feel all North America's resources ought to be developed without heed to the Canadian-American border.

Because there has been this silence about the dilemma of foreign control over our economy, few have yet noticed that one of the many results of last June's election was the effective bridging of the present with the era of C. D. Howe's days at the economic helm. In fact, that, rather than any change in our economic status, has been the prime reason for the temporary demise of the foreign control issue.

Now eliminated are those who had been thorns in the side of the disciples of C. D. Howe, those who had disagreed with the thesis that a dollar has no nationality and that the first item of business is business itself.

One such economic nationalist removed from his national forum was Walter Gordon, whose task force study on this very problem of economic domination has quietly been shelved. Another is the Progressive Conservatives' Alvin Hamilton.

Both Hamilton and Gordon had travelled across the country lecturing on the difficulties of maintaining political sovereignty when the economy is effectively directed from abroad. Both had exhorted Canadians to become concerned that our wealth was passing out of the country in the form of profits to foreign shareholders.

Gordon sought solutions such as placing restrictions on foreign companies and by getting Canadians to "buy back Canada." He also pushed for a Canadian Development Corporation, inwas more positive in the sense that he felt it was futile trying to buy back Canada with investment dollars which could be more wisely channelled into what he termed a "third alternative."

Hamilton's thesis was that while we might regret past errors, we should forget them and concentrate on ensuring that all future creation of wealth within Canada be controlled and majority-owned by Canadians. But Hamilton was not re-elected.

Of all our parties, the NDP is the most nationalistic when it comes to the status of the Canadian economy — yet defeat at the polls last June of many of that party's leading spokesmen has severely weakened their effort to keep the issue at centre stage.

This turn of events in the political sphere should not be interpreted to mean, however, that "economic nationalism" was a force kept alive merely by a handful of Canadian politicians, after whose demise the issue disappears. For at this very time, the same problem is drawing greater concern than ever from writers and political leaders in other nations which face, as does Canada, increasing foreign control.

In Peru, the military regime has nationalized International Petroleum Corporation's (Standard Oil) holdings and, to the chagrin of IPC and the American state department, is not even about to make reparations.

In Chile, the vital copper mines have been "Chileanized" — a hard-fought compromise between outright nationalization and the private enterprise interests, which places 51 per cent ownership in Chilean hands and leaves the rest with the Americans.

In Europe, similar concern has had its most intellectual manifestation in Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber's brilliantly-written best seller, The American Challenge. Canadians who had read Walter Gordon's books and Alvin Hamilton's speeches knew the essential theme by heart: The extension of American economic might leads to extension of American political will.

But the new framework within which we should examine the extent of foreign control over our economy is a cultural, not an economic one.

struggle emerges, therefore, as not being against an American threat. Instead we must recognize that we are grappling with the much larger dilemma of an international technological system which is the product of the 20th century.

It has untold advantages; it becomes a "dilemma" for us only when it starts to uproot our history and our heritage, and threatens our capacity to make independent political decisions as Canadians.

It is on this plateau where we must start searching for solutions, and the search should begin now.

The problem in Canada is being postponed only; when we return to solve it, it will not do to revert again to veiled anti-Americanism and negative proposals for restrictive measures against American subsidiaries in Canada.

Our people tend to favor positive rather than negative political solutions. Ultimately, there is no room in these days of world community for a blinkered approach to our economic quandary.

To make real strides in guaranteeing our national existence, we must approach the issue from this fresh perspective, and seek remedies in this broader framework.

Malaysians Bewildered by Fearful Events

Deputy Boss Over-Reacted

By FRED EMERY, from Singapore

Chilled to the marrow by the fearful racial slaughter and arson in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysians of all races are gingerly feeling their way back to an everyday co-existence which they know can never be the same again.

All have long known the intractable tensions between Malays and Chinese, but they were not prepared for an experienced government's inability to clamp and contain what, despite the seriousness, was a local eruption in the area of the capital.

Many are deeply dismayed at the government's too prompt resort to the dark panoply of emergency authoritarian rule. This was judged imperative to meet a shoddily latched communist takeover attempt in which few could believe. Now, with tragic irony, such a conspiracy has presented young Chinese with a fertile breeding ground.

The man responsible for this over-reaction, and who will have to wrestle with its implementation to avert disaster, is Deputy Premier Tun Abdul Razak, long the supreme "organization man" in government politics and administration.

Almost unnoticed in the rush of his assumption of full power, Tun Razak has virtually suspended the federal system, replacing the intricacies which irritated him with direct control reaching from his National Operations Council right down to district level.

A glaring, and so far unexplained, lapse is what happened in those first three days of paralysis and near collapse. The day violence erupted Tun had repeated meetings with chiefs of the army and police, yet the security forces response to violence triggered in the early evening by Malays around a government party meeting was culpably slow.

It would be exaggerated at this stage to see the operation as a take-over by "police-military forces." True, there are generals in positions of real power for the first time, authorized to issue directives to the civil administration. But Tun Razak has the real power vested in him, and he is not the man to share it with generals.

Also, he is still responsible to the prime minister, Tunku Abdul Rahman. Again, all the evidence suggests it would be most erroneous to see the Tunku as having been shoved aside. The vital new element in their relationship, however, is that the Tun is likely to consult the Tunku after taking action, rather than before.

If serious disagreement ever arose the split could be potentially critical, but their past relationship, cemented with the special loyalties of feudal Malay families, is quite against that likelihood.

Moon Colonies, Orbiting Laboratory or Man on Mars?

Space Projects Compete for Dollars

By FRANK MACOMBER, from Houston, Tex.

Even before the Apollo manned lunar landing program achieves its anticipated mid-July success, U.S. federal space agency officials are hurriedly winding up proposals for new space adventures extending through 1982. And there is good reason.

The Nixon administration has made it clear the next strides in space to be taken by America must be determined soon, possibly in late September or October. That will be after the president's scientific adviser, Dr. Lee A. DuBridge, submits a White House report recommending a course for post-Apollo space projects and the nature of the missions.

If Apollo continues to run on schedule, four or possibly five manned moon landings will be attempted — not the 10 that some space experts have predicted. Dr. DuBridge already has advised the president that nothing would be gained by extending the Apollo series beyond four or five successful landings.

While Dr. DuBridge has not said so publicly, the presumption is that a manned moon colony for scientific research would be the next logical step beyond a few landings, if the United States decides to push ahead with lunar exploration as a possible key to origin of the universe or as a jumping-off place for interplanetary travel.

The Apollo program already is running close to the $24 billion mark. Even its strongest supporters see no need to continue up to 10 landings if the early missions are successful.

Moon colonies, however, must compete for dollars with another project close to the hearts of National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials — notably Dr. George Mueller, NASA associate administrator for manned space flight.

That is a program to establish manned earth-orbiting space stations, beginning with a modest one not much larger than your kitchen and housing only three astronauts but building up to spacecraft that perhaps would accommodate 100 scientists and crewmen.

Competing for the same space dollars will be a third contender — expeditions to put astronauts on the surface of Mars in 1982. If this sounds outlandish, a board of scientists and engineers created to study future space options already has recommended the man-to-Mars course as part of a proposed U.S. space flight program in the post-Apollo era.

Each of these three ap-

"Watch yourself, baby! They're coming to get you."

space ventures involves the spending of additional billions. The Nixon administration is not likely to embark on all three at once and might elect to go with only one unless world and domestic problems move closer to solution.

Dr. DuBridge and Dr. Thomas O. Paine, the new NASA administrator, are conservatives when it comes to space spending beyond Apollo. That's one reason Nixon selected Dr. DuBridge as his scientific adviser and persuaded Dr. Paine to stay on with NASA instead of returning to a higher-salaried job in the aerospace industry.

The future of the U.S. space program beyond Apollo is "lffy" also because of a growing sentiment in Congress for a slowdown of the space effort after moon landings.

Legislators are being pressured to help solve such pressing domestic problems as campus disorders, the upward spiral of living costs, ghetto poverty and the housing shortage. These are the same pressures which push against the White House, with the additional demand for an end to the Vietnam war.

While the American public enjoys the success of the space program and is proud of it, taxpayers don't cry out for new space adventures as they do for an end to some of the "events" transpiring on earth.

What it boils down to is too few dollars available for all these programs in the next few years. The White House and Congress must choose up sides and determine which one or two of the projects is the most urgent.

The decisions must come in the next few months, long before the Apollo program ends some time late next year or early in 1971.

Home-Building Still Ahead

The growth rate of home-building in Victoria this year has slowed down but is still running 7.4 per cent ahead of its fast performance a year ago.

Figures supplied by Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. for the first four months of 1969, give total Victoria area starts at 934, with most of them in the homeowners sector.

This is in contrast to the situation in Vancouver where starts are up 35.5 per cent from a year ago at 6,426 units, but here, CMHC says, most of the building is in the rental sector. In this category are 4,746 units, up 72 per cent from a year ago, while the homeowner sector shows a decline of 15.2 per cent at 1,680 units.

Outside Vancouver, the rental sector throughout the province is on the decline, says CMHC. "Despite stiff financing costs and higher valuations, most people in Victoria still want to own their own homes," said one Victoria real estate man. "Except for those who are able to be moved from place to place because of their jobs, the majority are looking for homes of their own."

ROUNDUP BREWING

The great roundup of Victoria shareholders in Canadian Breweries is on.

A group of investment houses is soliciting shares in the brewing company on behalf of Philip Morris, seeking to buy 50 per cent of the 21,760,000 shares of Canadian Breweries.

An unofficial count is that more than 1,200 Victoria people hold shares in Canadian Breweries.

"We are getting a mixed response," said one Victoria dealer who is participating in the canvass.

PROFITS UP 20 PER CENT

An increase of nearly 20 per cent in its net profits for the six months ended April 30, is reported by Bank of Nova Scotia.

Compared with the figures for the corresponding half of 1968, the bank's net profit was $8,911,162 (59.3 cents a share). A year ago it was $7,489,366 (49.9 cents).

The bank said its total revenue grew to $195,907,835 and its expenses to $164,668,673 for a six-month excess of revenue over expenses of $31,239,162.

Set aside for possible losses was $12,500,000 against $8,000,000 a year ago.

BETTER THAN 1968

Net income of Crestbrook Forest Industries for the six months ended March 31 was $907,648, compared with $13,345 in the corresponding period of 1968.

The six-month strike of Interior woodworkers a year ago affected the sales and earnings a year ago.

Because of anticipated depreciation allowances in connection with the company's new pulp mill, no allowance has been made for income tax.

HUMPHRIES CHOSEN

Representing the Victoria area on the Real Estate Council of B.C. for the next two years is Denis G. J. Humphries, of Swinerton, Stewart, Clark Ltd. Humphries was elected to this government-appointed advisory board at the annual meeting of the Real Estate Institute's provincial membership division at Prince George.

EXPANSION PLANNED

Crown Zellerbach says it will spend $9,500,000 to modernize and increase the output of its pulp and paper mill at Port Angeles. Construction will begin next month, and will include the rebuilding of the largest of the plant's three paper machines.

Fisheries Proposal

Better-Designed Boats Easy-Term Loans Aim

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Tuesday his department is giving "very strong consideration" to replacing grants for the construction of new fishing vessels with easy-term loans.

He told the Commons fisheries committee the loans as conceived would be available in addition to those already open to fishermen under the Fisheries Improvement Loans Act.

He hoped the proposed loans would have a ceiling "many times higher" than the $25,000 proposed grant limit currently before the Commons as an amendment to the present $10,000 limit set out in the present act.

Davis said he "would think that the program would be aimed entirely at individuals." The loans would be Canada-wide and for new vessel construction only.

The federal government currently provides subsidies of from 20 to 40 per cent of the cost of constructing new vessels of more than prescribed lengths and tonnages.

The minister said the new loans would be made for perhaps three-quarters of the cost of a new vessel. It would be up to the provinces to decide whether they wanted to bring the percentage of the cost available up to 90 per cent with some sort of second mortgage.

Davis said the regulations on the size of boat constructed would be removed so the government would "stop interfering" in what equipment was created for various fisheries.

"I would hope that the loans would not be based on the size and shapes of the boats but on the credit-worthiness of the borrower."

Davis said there are already too many boats in the Canadian fishing industry. But there was room for boats of better design. Federal subsidies for boat-building are down to $565,000 in the 1969-70 departmental spending estimates from a high of more than $6,000,000 in 1966.

Following the committee meeting, Davis said the switch to loans from grants would "weed out" persons building boats with federal assistance in non-economic fields.

Truck Wheels May Break Up

U.S. Forces GM Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Until pressed by the federal government, General Motors Corp. did not warn the owners of some 150,000 light trucks that the wheels might break up under heavy loads, it was learned Tuesday.

GM is notifying the owners of 1960-65 model GMC and Chevrolet three-quarter-ton trucks that overloading could cause the wheels to fail and "break up"—particularly on those trucks out-fitted with campers.

Dr. Robert Brenner, acting director of the Federal Highway Safety Bureau, conceded GM had issued the warning statement after the department of transportation had informed the company that it would otherwise publicly demand it.

In Oshawa, Ont., a spokesman for GM of Canada said the company is not aware of any failure involving the estimated 9,000 trucks in Canada equipped with the same wheels. He said owners are being warned not to load their vehicles over specified limits without replacing the wheels but the company does not plan to recall any of the trucks.

Anti-Pollution Help

Five-Year Extension Lauded by Mayor

Victoria Mayor Hugh Stephen, chairman of the Regional District Board, welcomed Tuesday a decision by the federal government to extend the time limit for low-interest anti-pollution loans.

The federal scheme, due to expire next March, has been extended for five years, to March, 1975.

Mayor Stephen pointed out that the decision was important to several south Vancouver Island communities where sewage collection and sewage treatment projects were being planned.

The Pollution Control Board of the province has approved the rebuilding and extension of Macaulay Point outfall without a treatment plant, on an experimental basis, the mayor noted, but if treatment was found necessary, the extension of the low-rate loan plan would apply.

PLANT PLANS

The mayor also pointed out that Central Saanich and Sidney were planning treatment plants. City Manager Dennis Young said he was "pleased and relieved at the news."

He said it kept open a source of money from which the municipality often had to borrow.

The plan, under the National Housing Act, was designed to encourage municipalities to undertake works which would reduce pollution of land and water, Mr. Young said.

Indicted

Brewery Fund Helper?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Brewing Co. was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of unlawfully contributing campaign funds in connection with the 1964 senatorial campaign of former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger.

Attorney-General John Mitchell said the indictment, returned in Baltimore, headquarters of the brewery, alleged the company violated a federal statute prohibiting corporate and labor union political campaign contributions in federal elections.

PAYMENT CLAIMED

It said National paid $5,000 to the Walter Leftwich Organization, a Beverly Hills advertising agency that represented Salinger in the 1964 California election.

Salinger, who was not mentioned in the indictment, defeated Alan Cranston, now U.S. senator from California, in the Democratic party primary that year. He lost to Republican George Murphy in the general election.

Salinger was press secretary to the late President John F. Kennedy.

If National is convicted, it could receive a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine.

Delta Fights For Taxes

DELTA (CP)—The council in this Vancouver suburb says it is ready to fight Ottawa over a National Harbors Board ruling that the Roberts Bank deepsea port is being created on federal land and doesn't have to pay either municipal or provincial taxes.

Delta argued that the port will be within its tax jurisdiction.

Victorians Inducted to B.C. Sports Hall of Fame

Athans, Underhill, Chapman, Helen Stewart Hunt, Muzz and Lynn Patrick and Doug Fletcher

Beliveau Presents $25,000 From Molsons to Fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — ix of British Columbia's most famous sportsmen, and one woman, were inducted Tuesday night into the B.C. Sports Hall of Fame at the first annual banquet of champions.

Close to 700 persons attended the seven-Helen Stewart Hunt, Muzz and Lynn Patrick, Dr. George Athans, Doug Chapman, Doug Fletcher and John Underhill.

The dinner also marked the beginning of a building fund for a new Hall of Fame structure on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

The fund received a substantial boost when the night's main speaker, Jean Beliveau, captain of the Montreal Canadiens, presented a $25,000 cheque from Senator Hartland Molson and his brother, T. H. P. Molson.

Fletcher and Chapman are from Victoria, the Patricks are former Victorians.

The induction of the seven brought to 56 the number of British Columbians, or former British Columbians, in the hall.

The seven were elected from a total of 33 nominees placed before the hall's 33 trustees in 1968. Elections are held annually, and a nominee must receive a 75-per-cent vote to be elected.

BORN IN VICTORIA

Lynn Patrick, managing director of St. Louis Blues of the National Hockey League, was born in B.C. in 1912. He represented B.C. in rugby and basketball and played football with Winnipeg before carving out a hockey career as player and administrator.

His younger brother Muzz, born in Victoria three years later, also was an outstanding all-round athlete before going into hockey. He now is vice-president in charge of arena operations at Madison Square Gardens in New York.

OLYMPIC TEAM

Another Victorian in the group is Chuck Chapman, captain and coach of the Victoria Blue Ribbons and Dominions on five national basketball championship teams. He was with the Canadian Olympic basketball team in 1936.

Helen Stewart Hunt and Dr. George Athans, both born in Vancouver, represented Canada in aquatic events at Olympic Games, Helen as a swimmer and Athans as a diver.

John Underhill, also from Vancouver, was a Canadian singles badminton champion in 1928 and 1932 and was doubles champion five times over a span of 22 years, each time with a different partner.

Doug Fletcher, born in England in 1892, was president of the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association for more than 25 years and has been extremely active in minor sports. He was made a life member of the B.C. and the Canadian Lacrosse Associations in 1964 and was Victoria's Sportsman of the year in 1968.

Cricket Side Selected

Players from Oak Bay, Cowichan, Alibons and Alcos form the first Victoria representative team this season in Sunday's zone cricket match against Vancouver at Beacon Hill Park at noon.

Captain Colin Ruffles, Cartwright Richards and Albert Goward are from Oak Bay; Ken Hickling, Tim Brierly and Dick Joyce represent Cowichan; Mal Shanks, Alec Porter and Chris Rowe are from Alibons and Pat Usher and Alan Payne from Alcos.

Angels Greet New Manager With Win Over Cleveland

California Angels got a new manager Tuesday and promptly snapped a 10-game losing streak with a 2-1 win over Cleveland Indians.

Harold "Lefty" Phillips, a pitching coach under Bill Rigney, was appointed manager of the Angels earlier Tuesday after Rigney was fired by general manager Dick Walsh.

Phillips, 50, was a coach for Los Angeles Dodgers before switching to the Angels this year.

Rigney, who had managed the Giants since 1958, had another year to go on his two-year contract at a reported $65,000 a year.

DRIVES IN WINNER
Lou Johnson looped a single to centre field off Sam McDowell to drive in Rick Reichardt with the winning run in the seventh inning.

Hoyt Wilhelm shut out the Indians for the last two innings, preserving the win from Jim McGlothlin, with his eighth save.

STOTTLEMYRE SHINES
In other American League games, Mel Stottlemyre slammed a two-run homer with two out in the eighth inning to give New York Yankees a 5-3 win over Chicago White Sox and to make himself the first pitcher in the majors to win eight games. He has three losses.

Brant Alyea drove in three runs with a homer and single as the Washington Senators snapped a six-game losing streak with a 5-1 victory over Minnesota Twins.

Jackie Hernandez capped a three-run Kansas City rally with a two-run bloop single over the first baseman's head as Royals topped Boston Red Sox, 5-4.

Sal Bando clouted a tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning to give Oakland a 4-3 win over Detroit Tigers, ending a six-game Athletics losing streak.

Tigers' starter, left-hander Mickey Lolich had to leave the game in the fifth inning when he was hit on a line drive on his left forearm.

In the National League games, San Diego edged New York Mets, 3-2; Los Angeles and Atlanta scored 5-3 wins over Montreal Expos and St. Louis Cardinals, respectively; and Houston topped Philadelphia, 6-2; and San Francisco edged Chicago, 5-4.

STAGGERS TO WIN
Padres' Al Santorini gave up 12 hits but stranded 11 New York runners in staggering to his first win in almost six weeks and just second of the season against two losses. Ollie Brown led San Diego with a home run, his seventh of the season, and a single.

Tom Haller's two-run homer in the sixth inning was the big blow as Dodgers handed the Expos their 11th straight defeat.

NINTH WIN IN ROW
And while Expos' string became the longest in the majors this season, Houston's win was their ninth in a row matching San Francisco for the longest winning streak of the season.

A bases-loaded, ninth-inning home run by Doug Rader broke up a 2-2 struggle.

Felipe Alou singled in a run, in the first inning for Braves, scored in the third inning and ignited a two-run fifth inning with a hit to lead Atlanta to its win over the Cardinals.

Cubs' reliever Ted Abernathy walked pinch-hitter Jim Davenport with the bases loaded in the eighth inning to force in the winning run for San Francisco.

B.C. Telephone dumped Denver Electric from the Stuffy McGinnis Softball League Tuesday, defeating them, 5-2, at Heywood Avenue Park.

Although out-hit, 8-5, the Tels bunched three of them in the fifth inning to produce four runs and wipe out a 2-1 Denford lead.

Dave Humphries hit a home run for the Tels in the fourth inning.

Denford got their two runs in the second, also by bunting in three hits.

Uplands Junior Team Wins Inter-Club Golf

Uplands Golf Club juniors wrestled the Victoria and District Junior Inter-Club championship from Gorge

Vale Tuesday, holding off a determined challenge by the defending champion club to win by five strokes.

Uplands finished with a 627 total after opening up a 14-stroke margin Monday with a 304. Victoria was third with 650, Cedar Hill fourth with 655 and Colwood fifth with 656.

The best four scores on each of the two days counted for the match. Six golfers from each club participated in the event played at Gorge Vale and Victoria courses.

Leading the winners was junior champion Dave McCall, who had rounds of 74 and 77 for 151. Other team members were Jim Yates, Ian Anderson, Robin and Keith Burrell and Ken Nott.

Carl Schwartz of the Victoria club shot the best 36-hole score, 144. Gorge Vale's Dave Mick finished with 147.

Rye Preserves Win For Lions' Nelson

Jack Lusk singled, moved to third on a single by Ralph Branting and scored on Tom Sloan's sacrifice fly.

Lions' Mel Nelson got the first two Luckies out in the bottom of the inning but Gordy Jones singled, Muzz Smith was safe on an error by Nelson and Bob Labelle drew a base on balls.

That brought in Rye and Ben Price grounded out on the first pitch.

Destrube, Wild Win Bike Races

NANAIMO — Bernard Destrube of Victoria and Bill Wild of Port Moody won the junior and senior races, respectively, in the Centennial Plus two bicycle races Sunday.

Destrube beat Vancouver's Jim Gormican, who was second, and Max and Mike Griffin of Burnaby, who tied for third place in the 25-mile event.

In the close senior race, Wild finished a wheel-length ahead of Tony McMillan of New Westminster and two ahead of Victoria's Tom Morris.

Lou Jackson Dies in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Lou Jackson, 33, former outfielder for Chicago Cubs and Baltimore Orioles, died Monday in a Tokyo hospital.

Doctors at Jikei Medical College Hospital said Jackson died of acute pancreatic necrosis.

A native of Tampa, Fla., Jackson had been playing for the Japanese Central League professional baseball team Atoms since 1965.

He played for the Cubs in 1958 and 1959 and for the Orioles in 1964.

Czech, Finn Joining Blues

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Scotty Bowman, general manager-coach of St. Louis Blues, said Tuesday that Czechoslovakian Jaroslav Jirik and Finnish player Esa Isaksson have sent word that they'll join the National Hockey League club for training Sept. 11, at Ottawa.

Bowman said that both men are capable and talented athletes. In all, Bowman said that four European players might attend camp.

Don Ashby Jr., really isn't he's Peter.

Keith Dorman, president of the Shamrocks, said that Peter, son of former lacrosse star Don, would be in action for the club tonight at Memorial Arena against Coquitlam Adanacs in the Western Lacrosse Association Opener here. It was reported by the club earlier that the boy was Don Jr.

And Peter, who resides in Nanaimo, will bring along Chuck Hardy, a last-year performer, to rejoin the Rocks.

ALEC MERRIMAN

World champion skeet shooter Barney Hartman will be at Victoria Gun Club the evening of Wednesday, June 4, for a shooting clinic, demonstration and slide show, and anyone interested in trap or skeet shooting is invited to be on hand at the club's Albert Head grounds, starting at 7 p.m.

It will be a good chance to get your copy of his book, Hartman on Skeet, autographed.

He was the first, and still is the only shooter to go 100 straight (to break 100 consecutive targets) twice in the champion of champions event, using four guns, a big-busting mark established during a major record-smashing spree at Montreal in 1962.

He holds more world records than any other skeet shooter. In 1963 he set a world 12-gauge average of .9982. In 1966 he broke 2468 targets out of 2500 with the four guns, for an all-time, all-division high-all-around year-end record average of .9975.

In 1967 he topped this by breaking 2475 birds out of 2500 for a new all-time, all-division high-all-around record. Last year he set an all-time, all-division record of .9938 on 2750 birds. In the process he set a new all-time year average with the 12-gauge of .9990 on 1960 targets.

When the smoke cleared away from the 1968 shooting season, Hartman had won all five professional end-of-the-year awards, standing high man in 410, 20, 28 and 12 gauge and high over all.

In 1957 he qualified for the first time for the All-America All-Star skeet team and he has been a member of either the amateur or professional team every year since. In 1969 he was named captain of the Sports Affiliated All-America professional skeet team and Jimmy Askeford called him the "world's greatest skeet shooter."

BERNARD C. (BARNEY) HARTMAN

... world's greatest skeet shooter to be in Victoria next week.

Hartman was born in Swan River, Man., Nov. 2, 1916 and moved with his family to Tisdale, Sask., in the 1920s. There he used a shotgun for the first time, taking ducks to augment the family larder.

He joined the RCAF in 1938 and served as a search and rescue pilot in Goose Bay after the Second World War. It was there he began skeet shooting. After 25 years with RCAF he joined the ammunition sales department of Canadian Industries Limited as a member of the shooting promotion section.

Vancouver Island trap shooters made a good showing in the B.C. championships held in Richmond at the weekend.

Phillip Conrod of Campbell River took the B Class singles championships on both days with 100x100 Saturday and 98x100 Sunday and was first in the handicap shoot Saturday with 95x100.

Lou Pletz of Victoria took the C Class singles championships with 99x100 and Betty Goodman of the Victoria Club, who won the Island women's championships earlier this month, took the women's B.C. closed championships Sunday.

Victoria Gun Club members are getting ready for the big $200,000 1969 Winchester Claybird Tournament which will be a 12-gauge handicap event on a local, regional and final shoot-off program, with five Winchester guns, trap or skeet, to be awarded Victoria Gun Club shooters. The Victoria Club is the only Island club with skeet facilities to compete in the Winchester tourney.

Competitors must have shot at least 400 FITA targets to qualify and Victoria Gun Club is staging a special FITA 200-third tournament Aug. 24, just so more members will be able to qualify. The recent Island championship shoot, a 350-bird event, gave members the first leg towards qualification.

Local eliminations in the Winchester shoot will consist of 200 targets (100 each in trap and skeet) and will be shot on one of three weekends in September.

Regional eliminations will be shot Oct. 4, with Oct. 5 as a tie-breaking date. Finals will consist of 200 trap and 200 skeet targets.

Club teams will compete for five regional championships (four in the U.S. and one in Canada) and the regional championship teams will win all-expenses-paid trips to the Bahamas.

There will be two categories this year ... one for scratch shooters with an average 95.8 or higher and category and the other, a handicap open to all shooters with an average lower than 95.8.

Victoria Fish and Game Club members who have been sharply divided in the past and one of antlerless deer and elk shooting, voted on a Monday night when they gave unanimous approval to a motion to ask the game branch to ban all antlerless shooting until deer and elk herds have recovered from the effects of last winter's snow and frigid temperatures.

Buffalo Again Fails To Sign Simpson

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bills once again have failed to sign All-America O. J. Simpson, and club owner Ralph C. Wilson said Tuesday he would consider trading him.

Wilson, in a statement released by the American Football League team's office here, said he met Monday in Detroit with Simpson, his agent, Chuck Barnes, and his lawyer, David Lockton.

DEEP LOAN DEMAND
Simpson, the 1968 Heisman Trophy winner from Southern California, was reported to have asked Wilson for a $600,000 salary and a $500,000 loan.

Wilson said Simpson and his negotiators agreed to drop the loan demand.

"As their concession for doing this," Wilson said, "they asked for an increase of $50,000 in the bonus and salary previously requested."

Wilson said he had been prepared to increase his original offer, never made public, to Simpson.

"But in view of this new demand, which I felt to be unreasonable, I stood not except to offer inducements on the basis of performance."

WILL CONSIDER TRADE
The Bills' owner said the Simpson group rejected the idea and asked whether he would trade O. J.

"I said I would consider it," Wilson said.

Buffalo, which finished the 1968 season with the poorest record in both the AFL and National Football League, had first choice in the combined U.S. college draft. It picked Simpson.

Wilson said he had been prepared to increase his original offer, never made public, to Simpson.

"But in view of this new demand, which I felt to be unreasonable, I stood not except to offer inducements on the basis of performance."

Canada Will Push for Open Hockey Meetings with Ahearne Clear Way

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's hopes of returning to its former status as a world amateur hockey power are yet to be fulfilled, but at least the people who can make it possible are talking to each other.

This is the consensus after a series of meetings here this week, attended by Bunny Ahearne, London-based European president of the International Ice Hockey Federation. Ahearne met secretly with Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, Gordon Jukes and Bob LeBel of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and two NHL owners—David Molson of Montreal Canadiens and Stafford Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs.

The outcome of the meetings is that the CAHA, as Canada's official representative to the IIHF, will propose that next winter's world hockey championships in Montreal and Winnipeg be declared an open competition permitting this country to enter a professional team.

MEETING TODAY
The CAHA will advise Hockey Canada, the organization set up recently to operate Canada's national team in the world tournament, of its ideas at a Toronto meeting today.

Molson and Smythe are both directors of Hockey Canada. Campbell is an adviser to the group.

"I feel that he (Ahearne) feels for the first time he has been talking to the people who are running hockey on this continent," Molson said Tuesday. "The meetings were good and as a result there will be some proposals. Now I think he fully understands the Canadian situation."

HAVE ALTERNATE PLAN
Molson said that while an open tournament is what Canada wants, he does not feel it will come in time for next year.

"However, we do have alternate plans and these will be put forward at a meeting of Hockey Canada in Toronto tomorrow," he did not elaborate.

Previous statements by Ahearne have usually contained a flat "no" to any proposals that Canada use a professional team in world competition to offset the pseudo-amateurism practised by its European opponents.

GAVE IN
He later acceded to recommendations that six pro—three from the Leafs and three from Canadiens—could be considered for instant reinstatement to amateur status in time to play for Canada's nationals.

Now Ahearne has not entirely closed the door on the latest proposal for an all-pro team from this country, although he says the proposition would not "stand a chance" with the IIHF general body. But he qualified this apparent instant refusal by adding that the CAHA proposal "can always be amended."

QUITE AN INFLUENCE
"This is a matter the CAHA must decide—what form the proposal will take," Ahearne said. "If they propose an open tournament, I don't think it will pass the congress of the IIHF, but it can always be amended."

Molson said he feels Ahearne has "quite an influence" on the IIHF general body.

POINTS OUT RULES
Campbell said his role had been to inform all concerned of the difficulties that would be encountered if either Smythe or Molson offered any players to the Nationals from their NHL clubs.

Any such move would require a change in NHL bylaws as the league's constitution states that every team must ice the best possible squad at all times.

"It was my idea they go to a non-NHL pro team to be selected by the general manager of Hockey Canada, Hap Emms," Campbell said.

REFUSES TO SPECULATE
This would indicate the selection would be made from players currently performing with American and Central Hockey league clubs. However, Campbell refused to speculate how such a proposal would sit with the IIHF members.

Campbell said his conversations with Ahearne had shown the IIHF chief still had misgivings about any such proposition. Meanwhile, in Toronto, Smythe proposed a world hockey championship between the best teams in North America and Europe.

"The key to the whole issue is an open world tournament," Smythe said. "I know Ahearne controls quite a few votes in the IIHF, but I also know the Russians have quite an influence. Now they should act if they really want to play us."

Smythe was referring to Russia's wish to play an NHL team. The Toronto president proposes an open tournament played as a zone competition like tennis Davis Cup.

"In my opinion, the best team of Canada should play the best team of the United States in a four-out-of-seven tournament to declare the North American champion."

"The Europeans should declare a winner in similar fashion, then the North American and European champions would meet for the real world title after the hockey season. That is also the true aim of Hockey Canada."

Brundage to Skiers: 'Abide by Rules ... Or Get Out'

MADRID (AP)—Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, warned the International Ski Federation Tuesday to submit to Olympic regulations or "leave our organization."

Brundage, of Chicago, made his remarks during a speech at the headquarters of the Spanish Olympic Committee. Brundage is on a three-day official visit to Spain as a guest of the Spanish Olympic Committee.

Brundage repeatedly criticized the organization of the 1968 Winter Olympic Games in Grenoble, France, during his speech.

"The Winter Olympic Games in Grenoble became five separate events with five Olympic villages," Brundage said.

"These games were completely commercialized," he added.

"But winter games are difficult to organize under Olympic regulations," Brundage declared.

The IOC is scheduled to meet with the ski federation in Lausanne, Switzerland June 3.

"If they do not submit to Olympic regulations, they will have to leave our organization," Brundage declared.

World champion skeet shooter Barney Hartman will be at Victoria Gun Club the evening of Wednesday, June 4, for a shooting clinic, demonstration and slide show, and anyone interested in trap or skeet shooting is invited to be on hand at the club's Albert Head grounds, starting at 7 p.m.

It will be a good chance to get your copy of his book, Hartman on Skeet, autographed.

He was the first, and still is the only shooter to go 100 straight (to break 100 consecutive targets) twice in the championship event, using four guns, a bird-busting mark established during a major record-smashing spree at Montreal in 1962.

He holds more world records than any other skeet shooter.

In 1963 he set a world 12-gauge average of .9862. In 1966 he broke 2468 targets out of 2500 with the four guns, for an all-time, all-division high-all-around year-end record average of .9875.

In 1967 he topped this by breaking 2475 birds out of 2500 for a new all-time, all-division high-all-around record. Last year he set an all-time, all-division record of .9938 on 2750 birds. In the process he set a new all-time year average with the 12-gauge of .9990 on 1050 targets.

When the smoke cleared away from the 1968 shooting season, Hartman had won all five professional end-of-the-year awards, standing high man in 410, 20, 28 and 12 gauge and high over all.

In 1957 he qualified for the first time for the All-America All-Star skeet team and he has been a member of either the amateur or professional team every year since. In 1969 he was named captain of the Sports Field All-America professional skeet team and Jimmy Robinson called him the "world's greatest skeet shooter."

BERNARD C. (BARNEY) HARTMAN

... world's greatest skeet shooter to be in Victoria next week.

Hartman was born in Swan River, Man., Nov. 2, 1916 and moved with his family to Tiedale, Sask., in the 1920s. There he used a shotgun for the first time, taking ducks to augment the family larder.

He joined the RCAF in 1938 and served as a search and rescue pilot in Goose Bay after the Second World War. It was there he began skeet shooting. After 25 years with RCAF he joined the ammunition sales department of Canadian Industries Limited as a member of the shooting promotion section.

Vancouver Island trap shooters made a good showing in the B.C. championships held in Richmond at the weekend.

Phillip Conrod of Campbell River took the B Class singles championships on both days with 100x100 Saturday and 98x100 Sunday and was first in the handicap shoot Saturday with 95x100.

Lou Pletz of Victoria took the C Class singles championships with 98x100 and Betty Goodman of the Victoria Club, who won the Island women's championships earlier this month, took the women's B.C. closed championships Sunday.

Victoria Gun Club members are getting ready for the big $200,000 Winchester Claybird Tournament which will be a 12-gauge handicap event on a local, regional and final shoot-off program, with five Winchester guns, trap or skeet, to be awarded Victoria Gun Club shooters. The Victoria Club is the only Island club with skeet facilities to compete in the Winchester trophy.

Competitors must have shot at least 400 PITA targets to qualify and Victoria Gun Club is staging a special PITA 200-third tournament Aug. 24, just so more members will be able to qualify. The recent Island championship shoot, a 350-bird event, gave members the first leg towards qualification.

Local eliminations in the Winchester shoot will consist of 20 targets (100 each in trap and skeet) and will be shot on one of three weekends in September.

Regional eliminations will be shot Oct. 4, with Oct. 5 as a tie-breaking date. Finals will consist of 200 trap and 200 skeet targets.

Club teams will compete for five regional championships (four in the U.S. and one in Canada) and the regional championship teams will win all-expenses-paid trips to the Bahamas.

There will be two categories this year... one for scratch shooters with an average 95.8 or higher and category and the other, a handicap open to all shooters with an average lower than 95.8.

Victoria Fish and Game Club members who have been sharply divided in the pros and cons of antlerless deer and elk shooting, voted as one Monday night when they gave unanimous approval to a motion to ask the game branch to ban all antlerless shooting until deer and elk herds have recovered from the effects of last winter's snow and frigid temperatures.

Benvenuti, Manager Subpoenaed in Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy, upset by 12-5 underdog Dick Tiger Monday night, manager Bruno Amaduzzi, Tiger and several figures in boxing, have been subpoenaed in a grand jury investigation, it was learned Tuesday.

This is the consensus after a series of meetings here this week, attended by Bunny Ahearne, London-based Euro-

Police Knew About Plan To Assassinate Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Knowledge of a plan to assassinate Prime Minister Trudeau at last June's wild St. Jean-Baptiste Day parade led police to surround him, Montreal Police Director Jean-Paul Gilbert disclosed Tuesday.

"We knew a group was definitely after the prime minister to kill him," Gilbert said in an interview.

The disclosure came after Gilbert told the Commons justice committee that police want the right to use electronic surveillance methods to prevent terrorist bombings and violent demonstrations.

He referred to the 1968 St. Jean Baptiste Day parade in Montreal, which Trudeau reviewed, as an example.

Gilbert said information on the assassination plan came from informers.

Asked whether electronic methods had been used, he replied: "Not necessarily." He was uncertain whether the RCMP might have used such methods.

RCMP and Montreal police had co-operated closely in security arrangements, he said.

Gilbert

The stocky police chief refused to elaborate when asked who was involved in the plan and how it was to be carried out.

Gilbert would not say whether any persons were arrested in connection with the assassination plan. No shots were fired during the parade although there were severe scuffles between demonstrators and police.

He said heavy security at the night parade resulted from knowledge of the plan. Several persons were arrested and injured in the scuffles.

Gilbert said half the 200 persons on the reviewing stand with Trudeau were police. The prime minister was nearly hit by a thrown bottle.

***

Gilbert and Toronto Police Chief James Mackey appeared before the justice committee with a brief from the Association of Chiefs of Police. Gilbert is vice-president and Mackey is past-president.

Chief Mackey said the electronic eavesdropping equipment should be made illegal except for police.

Asked about the feeling that police should have to apply to a judge each time, Chief Mackey replied:

"Why do they want to take it away from chiefs of police?"

"Are the police so dirty they can't be entrusted to do the job they are paid for?"

Agree to 'Live Together'

Telephone Firms Drop Opposition to Satellite

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian telephone companies dropped objections Tuesday to government plans for a domestic space satellite system.

They agreed to join in formation of Telesat Canada Corp. with the government, the general public and CN-CP Telecommunications.

A letter to the Commons broadcasting committee from Trans-Canada Telephone System said the eight member companies had agreed to withdraw proposed amendments to the Telesat legislation.

Communications Minister Eric Kierans, sponsor of the bill to establish Telesat with mixed private and public ownership, described the letter as "an agreement to live together, how happily—well, we're confident it will be happy."

POWER PLAY
Max Saltzman (NDP-Waterloo) said the letter shows the telephone companies "have backed off and the ministers power play has apparently worked."

Saltzman was referring to earlier disagreement in which the telephone companies said they might reconsider participating in the satellite project if the government refused to accept their proposal. They said rental of communications channels through the satellite should be limited to themselves and government agencies.

Kierans made it plain a week ago that the project would go ahead without Bell Canada and the other telephone companies if necessary. He classed the proposed amendments as unacceptable.

BINDING
The amendments would have bound Telesat Canada to renting channels only to the participating communication companies without any assurance that they would rent. The companies could thus have hobbled the corporation, forcing it out of business if it did not want to rent out channels at their price, Kierans said.

At the same time, he reiterated that the satellite would complement, not compete with, existing communications systems such as microwave towers.

He assured the telephone companies that Telesat would rent only complete channels of the six to be available in 1971. Each channel would take a television program or 600 telephone calls.

Horsemen Ready For Fair

Trotting figure-eights around stakes and cloverleafs around barrels are some of the events planned at the Saanichton fairgrounds this weekend.

Other events will include trail horse, pleasure, stock saddle seat, riding and reining, poles and surry, in both junior and senior classes.

Kootenays Given Roads Pledge

VANCOUVER (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett Monday night promised better roads and economic prosperity for the east Kootenay, the two main issues which have sparked a budding separatist, join-Alberta movement there.

Sunday, the Kimberley, Cranbrook, and Riondel chambers of commerce voted to petition the Alberta government in a bid to have east Kootenay cut off from British Columbia and added to the Prairies.

They claimed that the 1969-70 highways department budget favors west Kootenay and particularly Nelson, which is in Highway Minister Wesley Black's riding.

The Kootenay's natural business axis is with Calgary, 200 miles east, not with Vancouver, 600 miles west, the chambers said.

"I would say that the east Kootenay has had very difficult times, you know, but the Social Credit government of B.C. . . . is going to make the east Kootenay one of the most prosperous parts of B.C.," the premier promised.

He said the area is on the threshold of an economic boom thanks to his government's planning and Japanese businessmen who agreed to build a pulp mill at Skookumchuk when "no English, American or German firms would do it."

"I'm not buying votes — we don't believe in promises, we only believe in performance," the premier asserted. Mr. Bennett said that while a lack of resource markets in the past has hurt the east Kootenay, so did the fact that the area's MLA (the NDP's Leo Nimick) was always in the opposition.

In reply to charges about the conditions of roads in the east, Mr. Black said in ways are in "pretty darn good shape" and added it was of B.C. are in need of repairs important to realize that winter following an unusually severe maintenance and repair crews.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The third Boeing 737 for Pacific Western Airlines will be delivered to the carrier in July, seven months ahead of schedule, the airline announced. The 117-passenger jet will be used mainly on the Calgary-Edmonton PWA route.

Formal NATO Agreement

Emergency Fleet Certain

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Defence ministers of the North Atlantic alliance have agreed to establish formally a joint Mediterranean emergency fleet for contingencies in the explosive area, an American delegation sources said Tuesday.

At the same time the United States has urged Canada to go easy on her planned pullout of troops from NATO, at least until other members of the alliance can fill the dangerous gap.

MINUS FRANCE

The sources said these issues will dominate the conference of NATO defence ministers, minus France, at a one-day conference in Brussels today.

The American sources said the ministers will formally establish a Mediterranean emergency force approved in principle earlier this year. It is expected to become operational possibly later this year.

King Fisherman List Records First Coho

The first coho have been entered in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest, bang on schedule.

George Borza of 1425 White in Nanaimo caught a 5.8-pounder off the Spar Buoy at Clayton's on a Nosky Killer. Ralph Von Kampen caught a 5.8-pounder on Flashed off Bates Beach.

Both were almost certain to win a King Fisherman Prince Button, unless the coho hit strongly by Saturday's end of the month. That's the last chance to get on the 25 Prince Buttons awarded in each of the salmon categories and the 15 Prince Buttons awarded for lake trout, river trout and smallmouth bass.

Principal Retiring

Reunion Set As Tribute

Gordon Head junior high students will hold a reunion in the school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. June 4 to honor their retiring principal, H. H. Downard.

Mr. Downard, who is retiring June 30, has been principal at Gordon Head since the school opened in September, 1960. The school started with an enrollment of 330 students, and now has 850. When the term opens in the fall Mr. Downard expects an enrollment of 1,025.

A graduate of Victoria High and the Provincial Normal School, Mr. Downard first taught in a one-room school in Stuart River in 1927. He was only 18 and had to grow a mustache to maintain discipline over his oldest student, who was 17.

He later earned his BA degree in English and history and a bachelor of education degree from University of British Columbia.

He has served as principal of Happy Valley, Strawberry Vale, View Royal and Victoria West schools and was acting vice principal of Oak Bay junior high when it was under construction.

Mr. Downard and his wife,

Evlyn, will be leaving on a tour of the country shortly after his retirement.

"We've been trailblazers for a good many years," he said. They will go to Toronto to visit their son, Jay, then south for the winter.

"We'll come back here when we get homesick." They have a daughter, Mrs. Donna-Rae Cutbert, who also lives in Victoria.

Central Principal

Garner Appointed

William Garner, vice-principal of Lansdowne junior high school, has been picked to succeed Miss Olive Heritage as principal of Central junior high.

Mr. Garner, 35, has been 13 years in Greater Victoria school district and has taught at elementary schools and Victoria High.

Miss Heritage is resigning before normal retirement date.

Member of Victoria's pioneer Wilson family, she became B.C.'s first woman principal of a high school when she was appointed to head Central junior in 1962.

Miss Heritage was principal of the former Girls' Central school for six years during the '30s and became vice-principal of Central junior when it was opened in 1937.

Graduation, Ball

Royal Roads Cadets Having Busy Week

It's a busy week for officer cadets of Royal Roads Military College. Thursday they hold their annual Parents' Day. Friday is graduation and events include a parade, tea and ball.

The graduation parade and tea at 2 p.m. Friday are open to the public. Gen. Charles Foulkes, professor of war strategy at Carleton University, Ottawa, and former chairman of the Canadian chiefs of staff, will be the reviewing officer.

There will be 190 officer cadets on parade under the command of Cadet Wing Cmdr. L. M. Juteau. The cadets will be dressed in the traditional scarlet ceremonial uniforms of the Canadian Military Colleges.

PARENTS' DAY

Muscle for the graduation parade will be provided by the Naden Band and the Cadet Wing Drums and Bugle Band.

Tea will be served on the lawn after the parade, or in the gymnasium if it rains.

On Thursday, Parents' Day, the officer cadets will hold a special physical education display at 1:30 p.m. for parents and invited guests. The display will cover many phases of the physical education program at the college. Athletic and academic prizes will be awarded on the lawn of Hatley Castle after the display. The commandant, Col. K. E. Lewis, will deliver a short farewell address to the graduating class.

The graduation ball will be held Friday night on the quarter-deck of the Nixon Building at the college.

Peter Kendall, son of J. Kendall, 3240 Quadra, Victoria, and Alvin Crosby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crosby, 920 3rd Avenue North, Port Alberni, are members of this year's graduating class.

Police Veterans Plan Reunion

Oldtime policemen will be reunited this week at the annual dinner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Veterans' Association.

Former members of the North West Mounted Police, the Royal North West Mounted Police and the RCMP will attend the dinner to be held at 6:30 p.m. on Friday in the Sons of Norway Hall.

Expect a lot of good things when you fly East with Air Canada.

Like the convenience of choice, for instance.

Air Canada has seven jet flights to Toronto every day from Vancouver. Two of these are non-stop — most of the others one-stoppers. All have a standard of service that we think is the best you'll get anywhere. On any airline.

But, that doesn't mean we're going to leave things just the way they are. There will be changes...simply because we believe that even the best can get better.

We're on our way up in more ways than one. And we intend to prove it. Always. All ways. For you. Next time you head East, come with Air Canada and see for yourself. Just call your travel agent for your reservations.

In Italy

Absent Actor 'Jailed'

ROME (Reuters) — French actor Alain Delon and two of his bodyguards were sentenced in their absence Tuesday to four months imprisonment following a brawl with a local photographer in March.

The judge refused to suspend the sentence, so the three face immediate arrest if they enter Italy.

The incident took place in a restaurant March 26 when Giuseppe Arnone photographed Delon who was then in the centre of investigations in the Markovic murder case in France.

On Delon's orders the two bodyguards, Jean Bonnette and Pier Caro, jumped the photographer, beat him up and smashed his camera, the court was told.

Vancouver

Morals Term Given

VANCOUVER (CP) — Clifford Heggs, 27, was sentenced to six years and nine months in prison Monday after hearing himself described by the court as a man who showed "innate cunning, deliberate planning and organization" in luring girls into prostitution.

He had pleaded guilty last week to five morals charges and a count of obstructing justice.

The crown said Heggs lured students ranging in age from 13 to 20 years at Vancouver Technical high school into becoming prostitutes, took obscene photographs of them, lived off their earnings and threatened one of the girls who was to give evidence against him.

In passing sentence, Magistrate Jack Anderson said Heggs had a mental age between 14 and 15 and sought out young people of that age. He described the accused man's activities as showing innate cunning, deliberate planning and organization.

Heggs, an unemployed mechanic, was sentenced to six years for having sexual intercourse with a girl under 14; to six months for taking obscene photographs; to six months for keeping a common bawdy house; to three years for procuring and to three years for living on the avails of prostitution, all to be concurrent.

He was also sentenced to nine months consecutive on the charge of obstructing justice.

Ford Recalls 26,042 For Hood Defects

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. announced Tuesday it is recalling 26,042 cars in Canada for inspection and possible replacement of faulty hood latches.

In the United States, Ford is recalling about 350,000 cars for the inspection and overseas about 2,000.

A Ford spokesman said latches, manufactured by a secondary supplier, could cause hoods to open while the car is moving. No accidents are known to have happened because of the faulty latches, the spokesman said.

In all about 346,000 standard-sized Fords and 35,800 Cougars are being recalled.

A strike threat from the fishermen brought a fresh wave of labor unrest surging across the province.

Only bright spot in the otherwise gloomy labor picture was in Victoria where Vancouver Island Coach Lines called for a meeting with striking drivers. The meeting between the company and representatives of the 100 drivers has been set for 7 p.m. Thursday.

LAST BUS LINK

The strike for a new contract began May 8, halting major bus services between Island centres. Last week bus links with the mainland were cut when pickets were set up at outlets used by Vancouver-based Pacific Stage Lines.

In Vancouver striking meatcutters forced 31 supermarket outlets to suspend operations when more than 100 members of the meatcutters' local of the Canadian Food and Allied Workers Union threw picket lines around 30 stores of the Super-Valu supermarket chain.

The stores closed their doors when other employees refused to cross the picket lines.

The IGA food department in Eaton's Vancouver store was also forced to close when pickets appeared at the grocery outlet.

It is still not known if Victoria stores will become involved in the strike.

"The decision will be up to the employers," said union secretary-manager George Johnston.

UNION STRATEGY

He said union strategy at present is to contain the strike as much as possible, but he pointed out that if the employers decide to lock out Victoria workers then the union can legally take immediate steps to set up pickets at the affected stores.

Supermarket and union representatives met in Vancouver Tuesday afternoon but neither side appeared optimistic that a solution would be found quickly.

Management officials have agreed to discuss the union demand for a 36-hour work week, but a spokesman for the supermarket employers said the two sides are "a long way apart."

He said the union is seeking shorter hours of work and higher pay levels than are currently in force in supermarket operations anywhere in North America.

PRIORITY SYSTEM

In addition to shorter hours the 800 butchers who now work a 40-hour week are also asking for a priority system to be set up so that meatcutters throw out work by more automated methods would have prior claim to other jobs in the food industry.

Four other supermarket chains — Shop Easy, High-Lo, Food Fair and Safeway — are also involved in the dispute but union strategy at present is to picket only Super-Valu stores and the IGA outlet at Eaton's.

The oil workers union continued to throw up picket lines to keep trucks from entering and leaving plants of Gulf Canada Ltd., Standard of B.C. Ltd., Shell, Texaco, Imperial and Home Oil.

PRODUCTS 'HOT'

They have named all products produced behind picket lines "hot" and have called on the public to boycott products of the struck companies.

The union is urging people to buy from Pacific 66 and Union Oil Co., whose refineries have not been struck.

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union said Tuesday they felt that the Fisheries Association was stalling proposals with the salmon season getting closer.

"The company stalling can lead to strike action," said secretary-treasurer Homer Stevens.

NO OFFER

He said the Association has not made an offer on sockeye prices, and on May 22 they had said they would not go higher than last year's minimum of 37¢ cents a pound. For coho they had offered last year's minimum of 28¢ cents, and for pinks a quarter-cent increase to 12¢ cents. There had been a half-cent increase offer on chums to put the price to 13¢ to 15¢ cents.

"The proposals for pinks and chums are totally unrealistic," said Mr. Stevens.

Boat Sought

Single Word Clear

AGADIR, Morocco (AP) — Fishing boats from this port were asked Tuesday to be on the lookout for the red boat on which Norwegian explorer Thor Heyerdahl and six crew members are trying to sail the Atlantic to Mexico.

A garbled radio message from the craft Monday night had only one word that could be made out clearly: "Medicine." This might have referred to Norman Baker, the navigator from New Rochelle, N.Y., who was being treated for a fever when the papyrus boat set out Sunday.

The Agadir fishing boats were asked to give help to Heyerdahl and his crew if anything was requested.

Red Cross

Swimmers Win Awards

Water safety and survival awards have been given to 193 Victoria swimmers.

The Victoria Chinatown Lions Club program, working through the facilities of the Red Cross water safety service, consisted of a 12-week course for swimmers of all ages.

Mrs. W. H. Brimblecombe, chairman of the Red Cross water safety service, said the courses in the Crystal Garden were under the guidance and supervision of 29 Red Cross trained water safety instructors. The awards were divided into seven groups: beginners, pre-juniors, juniors, intermediates, seniors and basic and advanced survival.

Royal Life Saving Awards were given to 15 swimmers. Bronze awards in life-saving went to intermediates Yvonne Williams, Suzanne Moreau, John Brimblecombe, Ken Dash, Dave Henderson, Robert Naylor and Ian Jenney. Bronze medallions were awarded to Keith Frowse, Jerry Farley, Mark Porter, Dan Moreau, Joy Birtwhistle, Peter Underwood, Michael Jones, Gaylene Chow, Sharon Barrett, Craig Holyhead, George Kelly, Gwynne Sykes and Judith Champion. Peter Gibson and Joy Bradstock won bronze bars, a special award of merit in this category.

Sons of Freedom Chief Returns to His People

VANCOUVER (CP) — Stefan Sorokin, spiritual leader of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, is in British Columbia on a long-awaited visit to his people.

Mr. Sorokin, who has lived in Uruguay since 1952, arrived in the Freedomite community of Krestova Tuesday and is staying with relatives there.

Friends said he plans to visit the Freedomite camp near Agassiz, then leave next month for Russia before returning to Uruguay.

Sorokin

A spokesman for the Krestova community said Tuesday that Mr. Sorokin had planned on making the visit to B.C. for some time. The spokesman said the sect's leader has no plans to lead an emigration of Doukhobors out of Canada.

Mr. Sorokin's visit to Russia is for personal reasons, the spokesman said. The Freedomite leader also has relatives there.

This is Mr. Sorokin's second visit to Canada since he left in 1952 to find a new land for his followers in South America and remained in Uruguay to live.

He made a trip here in 1960 and said at that time he planned to return to Uruguay and direct his followers from afar like the Pope in Rome.

On that trip he refused to meet the people of Krestova because 13 of the women in the welcoming crowd stripped off their clothes. Mr. Sorokin had said before he is opposed to the nude parading which was a common form of Freedomite protest.

Preparations for the current visit provoked a school boycott in December by Freedomites living in roadside shacks at the Agassiz camp near the gates of Mountain Prison.

Freedomites established the camp in 1963 to be near sect members serving sentences in following conviction on charges of committing various acts of terrorism.

The maximum security prison situated about 65 miles east of Vancouver, was built in 1960 to house up to 350 men and women Freedomites. Only a handful of prisoners remain.

Parents of the 45 children who attend public schools in the Agassiz district claimed that the federal government had refused to grant Mr. Sorokin a visitor's permit.

The boycott ended two months later after the Freedomites received a letter from their leader urging them to end the boycott. He said a permit was available to him and that he would apply for it.

Divisions Streamlined

Major Change Slated In CBC Organization

TORONTO (CP) — A major change in the organizational structure of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was announced Tuesday by president George Davidson.

The change will reduce the number of CBC operating divisions to three from four, with the creation of an English services division and a French services division to replace three existing divisions—English networks, French networks and regional broadcasting.

The CBC international service will continue as a separate operating division.

Under the new set-up, the English components of regional broadcasting will be merged with English networks to form the new English services division. It will be responsible for all CBC English-language operations in Canada including national, regional and local programming.

Similarly, French networks and French-language regional operations will merge to form the new French services division. The changes affect both radio and television.

Davidson said the changes should result in an improvement in the balance between network and regional program services and in greater efficiency through the streamlining of administrative machinery.

He said the organizational changes will take place in two phases and will be completed by mid-1971.

Indian Chief Replies:

B.C. Wants Us for Money

By NANCY BROWN

The provincial government agreed to take over federal Indian schools because it could make money out of Indian students, Tsarlip Indian chief Philip Paul said Tuesday.

"We are wanted provincially," he said "as is the case in the schools, but they don't want the responsibility of the Indian people otherwise."

Mr. Paul pointed out that when Premier Bennett was asked about the contrast between the conditions of the B.C. Indian and those shown in his film The Good Life, he had replied that the taxpayer will over $4,000 a year—and what kind of an education will the Indian get for that money?

"A high percentage of Indian students in integrated schools are shunted into the occupational program, and whether you're Indian or non-Indian you're not getting any education at all in that channel."

"That means that an Indian family of eight is going to cost the taxpayer well over $4,000 a year—and what kind of an education will the Indian get for that money?"

"A high percentage of Indian students in integrated schools are shunted into the occupational program, and whether you're Indian or non-Indian you're not getting any education at all in that channel."

Sprinter Takes It All

Hitting tape well ahead of her competitors, unidentified sprinter takes it along with her in winning spot in June 7 elementary school track meet as she led pack Tuesday at Zone 2 runoff at Centennial Stadium. Five schools, View Royal, Victoria West, Macaulay, Uplands and Cloverdale, took part. Individual winners of meet will meet winners from six other zones in final.

Heart Failure Blamed In Boy's Jogging Death

Heart failure was the apparent cause of death of an Oak Bay boy, who fell while jogging along Beach Drive early Tuesday, an attending physician said.

John Dennis Selby-Hale, 12, fell about a mile from his home before 7 a.m. Tuesday. He was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital, but was dead on arrival, the physician said.

His sister, Linda, 14, and Jean Wilson, 14, of 1757 Armstrong, had accompanied him during his jogging.

John was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dennis Selby-Hale of 2373 Bowker. He is also survived by a brother, Henry George, at home.

Services will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday in First United Church, with Rev. R. J. D. Morris officiating. Cremation will follow.

Student-Trustee Meeting Will Air Smoking, Rules

By BILL STAVDAL

High school students will talk over their problems with Sooke school trustees soon, in a meeting requested by the students.

Smoking regulations, "the punishment system" and the possibility of having their school open at night are topics on the minds of students at Edward Milne senior school at Sooke.

"I am sure we could have great results if we could get together and talk these things over sensibly," said a letter from student council secretary Rob Halliday to the school board Tuesday.

BIG TOPIC

The board agreed to a meeting, with Trustee Robert Anderson predicting that anti-smoking rules would be the foremost topic.

The board recently rejected unanimously a request by two high school principals to permit smoking on school grounds under certain conditions.

The board agreed to hold the meeting "as soon as possible" after a new principal is appointed to head Edward Milne. Principal Lew Seens is leaving to study for a master's degree.

NEW MAN

The new principal will probably be appointed at a special board meeting Thursday.

Monday night, the board heard there were 18 applications for the post, some of them from the Interior.

The board also endorsed the recommendation of district superintendent Ernest Hyndman that the district seek a $2,000 government grant for participation in the 1970 B.C. physical fitness program. The district will emphasize swimming in the elementary grades.

Board chairman Fred Willway

REAL EDUCATION

"I'm not against more money being put into Indian education," he said, "but I would like to see it go into real education, not into something without value or meaning."

Mr. Paul said the change had been made without any consultation with the Indian people. "I wish they would realize that we are people with opinions and thoughts and ideas—many of our suggestions may even turn out to be good," he added.

PAST ACTIONS

Despite assurances that the educational future of the children would remain in the hands of their parents, Mr. Paul said past actions would dispute this claim.

"I think they have pretty well decided what they want for the future of Indian people in education," he said.

Longshoremen began loading the 28,000-ton ship Wednesday morning and finished just before she sailed.

The previous record single load from Ogden Point was the 11,000,000 board feet of cargo shipped a year ago aboard the Silver Cape. Chartering firm in both cases is Seaboard Lumber Sales Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, which handles export sales of a number of B.C. lumber companies. Both cargoes were packaged lumber.

Several Victoria shipping officials have pointed to the operation as one ideally suited to Ogden Point but also stated that the port needs more storage space for lumber assembly. Dredging of berths and raising of docks are also necessary, they said.

"A decided advantage that Ogden Point has," said one official, "is that it is a clean port. This is essential for shipping packaged lumber."

He said shipping lumber in areas where various powdered chemicals were loaded made it difficult to keep the lumber clean. There would be no such problem at Ogden Point.

For Victoria Lumber Cargo Record

The largest single cargo of lumber ever loaded in Victoria—13,500,000 board feet left—Ogden Point at midnight Tuesday aboard the Greek freighter Mina L. Cambanis.

BROUGHT TO SHIP

The usual procedure is for ships to call at various ports on the Island and sometimes Vancouver to pick up cargoes. In this week's operation, as last year, the lumber was brought to the ship.

Several Victoria shipping officials have pointed to the operation as one ideally suited to Ogden Point but also stated that the port needs more storage space for lumber assembly. Dredging of berths and raising of docks are also necessary, they said.

"A decided advantage that Ogden Point has," said one official, "is that it is a clean port. This is essential for shipping packaged lumber."

He said shipping lumber in areas where various powdered chemicals were loaded made it difficult to keep the lumber clean. There would be no such problem at Ogden Point.

Saanich Service 'Cutoff'

Library Board Probing Rumors

By PAT MURPHY

What were described in Saanich council as "blackmail" rumors that bookmobile and branch library service would be cut off in Saanich will be investigated by the Greater Victoria Library Board.

The inquiry will be made in response to a Saanich demand that such stories be traced to their source and a report made within a week, the board decided Tuesday. Members were told that the source might have been a Saanich alderman.

The whole question stemmed from the matter of the library board's 1969 budget.

COMPROMISE

The board asked for a per capita grant of $4.42 from all its five member municipalities. When this was deemed too high and the reaction indicated that municipalities would hang closer to a grant of $4 than $4.42, the board proposed a compromise solution.

Chairman Ald. Frances Elford of Oak Bay suggested at a meeting of mayors that the grant be based on 1968 population figures for the district, rather than those of the last census, 1966.

This would give the board about $28,000 more.

SAANICH ALLOWANCE

Eventually Victoria, Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Central Saanich agreed to go along. Nothing was heard from Saanich, aside from the fact that it would allow a per capita grant of $4, presumably based on the 1966 figures.

During a meeting of Saanich council Monday, finance committee chairman Ald. Foster Isherwood said reports of service discontinuance were "still" being circulated and that the source should be investigated.

Ald. Alan Newberry promised to bring the matter up at the library board meeting Tuesday, and he did.

He said that library employees had been telling book-borrowers to bring their books back to the bookmobile before the end of June because the service would be discontinued.

It was also stated, he said, that the branch library would close.

Ald. Elford suggested that the remarks might have originally emanated from a Saanich alderman.

She spoke to one member of Saanich council, she said, and in "cavalier fashion," he said "Cut off the bookmobile and close the Town and Country branch."

Mrs. Elford said that she explained that it would be unrealistic to cut off the bookmobile—all users in other areas would be deprived.

LOSS GREATER

She wondered if Saanich realized that unanimity was necessary if the 1968 population figure proposition was to be accepted.

If Saanich held out, the total loss to the library board would not be $28,000 but much more.

Rev. Gordon Walker cited a Saanich alderman saying that not only would the bookmobile service be discontinued and the branch library closed, but that Saanich might do well to set up its own library, exclusive of Greater Victoria.

Librarian John Lort said it was customary to take the bookmobile off the road every summer for overhaul and that employees might have asked borrowers to bring back books by the end of June for that reason.

Beaches Polluted

No-Swimming Time Again

A list of local beaches which will be posted as dangerous for swimming was issued Tuesday by the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health.

It will be the second year that beaches have been labelled unsafe.

Officials said the list issued Tuesday was the same as that for 1968, but a revised schedule will be prepared and issued soon, and will include several new beaches.

The listing followed a Victoria Medical Society pollution committee report that more research was needed before doctors would take a stand against untreated sewage being dumped into offshore waters.

The beaches listed by the health board to be posted:

Dallas Road, Ross Bay, Clover Point, Beach Drive near Royal Victoria Golf Club, Ten Mile Point side of Cadboro Bay, balance of Gordon Head beaches, north side of Ten Mile Point, the Gorge and Victoria West, and beaches on the Saanich Peninsula.

Dr. J. A. Taylor, provincial deputy health minister, said there was enough evidence of sewage pollution to declare beaches unsafe.

Five-Acre Plan On Back Burner

By DON GAIN

Saanich lands and planning committee does not want to rush into a bylaw to establish a minimum of five acres for future lots subdivided in the municipality outside of the proposed sewer enterprise area.

This was made evident Tuesday night when the committee, instead of approving a recommendation from the planning department to take immediate action in that direction, instead referred the question back to the planning department and to the committee as well.

MIDDLE WAY

"We don't want to do something that is too much, too soon," chairman Ald. Alan Newberry told the 35 taxpayers who attended the meeting. "We would like to try for a middle way or a modification."

The recommendation was included in the Blenkinsop Valley Study in March when planner Thomas Loney said the five-acre minimum, proposed for the valley, should apply to the whole municipality.

Mr. Loney spoke at length Tuesday night, explaining that the cost of developing the municipality in other ways would be astronomical. He also said that the existing sewer enterprise would provide enough serviced land for 15 to 20 years growth, which is three to four times what will be required.

Mr. Loney said that, in the last two weeks, due to publicity about the impending action, 60 applications were received by the planning department for 16-acre lots.

The five-acre minimum was arrived at when the Lower Mainland Planning Board made a quantitative analysis of subdivisions, he explained.

"The five-acre size is about the smallest parcel which will not jeopardize small-lot development. Otherwise you get a fragmented land pattern and the cost is astronomical," Mr. Loney said.

Taxpayers' comment ranged from questions on the effect the plan would have on land values to statements that land-owners would be penalized by having their land "frozen."

Copies of the Blenkinsop Valley Study may be seen at the municipal hall.

Stabbing Case Delayed By Injuries

Victoria police are awaiting the release of two men from hospital before making their next move in the case of the stabbing early Tuesday of a 23-year-old University of Victoria student.

Orville James Brown of 3240 Harriet is in fair condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken after a friend found him about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday in a Gorge Road parking lot, suffering from a stab wound in the stomach.

George F. Wright and Joseph Guilmette, both 21, of CFB Esquimalt, are under guard in Naden Hospital, to which they were transferred from St. Joseph's. Both men, in fairly good condition, are being treated for head cuts and Guilmette for internal injuries.

Police said a car was found wrecked in a pasture about 150 feet off Burnside Road.

Police said Mr. Brown and another student, Ronald L. Calhoun, 29, of 352 Gorge Road East, were drinking in the Tudor House on Esquimalt Road, accompanied by two other men.

Outside the hotel, the four men got into a car when Mr. Calhoun said he was threatened with a knife. He told police he jumped out of the car, which then was driven off.

Mr. Calhoun later heard Mr. Brown screaming, discovered him wounded, and called the police.

Police said no charges had been laid, and that any developments would have to await the release of the two men from Naden Hospital.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My problem is my roommate. She is the greatest. She is also the sloppiest. When she lived at home her mother was her maid. Here at school I am.

At the beginning of the semester she used to ask me to fix her bed when she was late for a class. I always did it. Then she began leaving the bed unmade and her clothes all over the place. When I'd get mad and chew her out she'd say, "Be a lamb. I've gotta get this paper in tomorrow and I'm late now." Or, "I date and I'm late now." Or, "I have a rotten headache." That girl had a million excuses.

Two weeks ago I decided to ignore her side of the room until she cleaned it. Ann, it got so terrible I was ashamed to have anybody in. The orange peels, the half-bottles of Coke, the cookies, the underwear, sweaters, shoes, cigarette butts, newspapers—it was unbearable. So I cleaned up after her. Like I swore I never would.

Replacement for TV

A month ago I signed up to be her roommate next year because we could stay in the same room and not have the mess of moving. What can I do about this miserable situation? Wetnurse to A Slob.

Dear Wet: Apparently you would prefer to live in a mess nine months out of the year than go to the trouble of moving. You must like the slob so much you figure the mess is worth it. So resign yourself to picking up after her or living in a junk heap because those are your choices.

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to comment on two letters

Preference for Mess

When a woman is sick she drags herself around and keeps going until she drops. And oh yes — a man needs a woman to talk to when the TV breaks down.

When a wife feels that her husband is using her she has only one weapon. No sex. Let him go elsewhere. She has nothing to lose. There was nothing there to start with. Woke Up Too Late.

Dear Late: Your letter is so full of hostility, and bitterness which appeared in your column recently. One was signed Sick of Sex And Hungry For Love. The other was from Hey You.

At least a prostitute can have a day off. And she can spend her money as she pleases. A wife has no such privileges. Let's face it. Most men need a wife. And sex is only a small part of it. A man needs a wife to prepare his meals, do his laundry, keep the house in order, raise his children, run his errands, pay his bills, entertain his friends and make a social life for him. When a man is sick his wife is his nurse.

Understanding Faulty?

Old Myth About Money Both Help, Hindrance

The myth that women don't understand money is both a help and a hindrance to women buying insurance, according to a Toronto insurance educator.

"Salesmen talking to women may be different—they don't know what to explain, because they don't think women will understand the finances," Nazla L. Dane said Tuesday.

They will tell a woman, "This is the best deal for you," but won't explain why," Miss Dane said. The director of the educational and women's divisions of the Canadian Life Insurance Association, she was in Victoria Tuesday as the last stop on a cross-country business trip.

"On the other hand, women can ask questions that men might hate to ask about insurance. Men hate to have someone think they don't fully understand," she said.

"Perhaps this myth will evaporate as men and women work together more as partners," she said.

Women need to know more about life insurance, Miss Dane explained, because they are beneficiaries of about 80 per cent of policies left to the family. Her job is to inform women, with the help of books and film strips. Her association also deals with schools and providing material pertinent to insurance teaching.

Mother Tabbed 'Super Ovulator'

Twin Explosion Unabated

WARREN, Mich. (UPI) — For Joe and Vian Amico, beating 1,000,000-1 odds is almost too much. They're about to bring home their fourth set of twins—their 10th and 11th children.

Counted-in, diapers and such, that adds up to 52 loads of wash a week.

After producing three single daughters, the Amicos began the twin explosions nine years ago—getting two for one every year for three years running. Amico, the president of a pharmaceutical firm, had to hire a maid to handle his housefull.

For seven years, the Amicos thought they had their population explosion licked. That was before the fat, healthy and as yet unnamed daughters were born Sunday.

A Detroit doctor calculated the odds of four double births at 1,000,000-1 and decided the four sets of fraternal (non-identical) twins make Mrs. Amico "what we would call a super ovulator."

But not the dark-haired Mrs. Amico. Shrugging, she said: "I guess I just became immune to the pill."

Symphony Tea Raises $500

The Women's Committee to the Victoria Symphony Society raised nearly $500 with a Victoria Day tea Saturday.

About 350 guests attended the tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Nugent. Entertainment was provided by Miss G. M. Pearcey's studio group, Reg Stone, Chris Salin, Bruce Turkington and the Adeline Duncan Dancers.

Some 300 persons attended the first annual Kin-Zonta Ball-Carnival last weekend at Craigdarroch Castle.

Proceeds of the ball, sponsored by Victoria Kinsmen and Zonta International, will go to the two service clubs' charities. Dave Pepper and the Ill Winds played for the dance.

The Local Council of Women recently held a smorgasbord at Hudson's Bay Co. Conveners were Mrs. Robert Hodgson, Mrs. H. I. McKenzie and Mrs. Pearl Colman. Mrs. E. L. Johns, past president, greeted guests.

Rev. R. J. Morris told Victoria United Church Women the board of women of the United Church of Canada will be integrated with the five existing boards in Toronto in two years. Delegates to the conference on the division of congregational life and work in Nanaimo recently were Mrs. A. H. Sheard, Mrs. T. G. Sewell, Mrs. G. W. Hagglund, Mrs. R. J. Garner and Mrs. A. E. Hay.

Trials Support New-Type Pill

Colonist-London Times Service
LONDON — A new type of oral contraceptive pill, containing only one sex hormone, has been shown in preliminary trials in South America and Britain to be effective and acceptable to women. The pill appears to have fewer side-effects and can be produced more cheaply than the conventional pill.

The news follows the finding here last week that sequential oral contraceptives are not as effective as the conventional pill.

Most present-day oral contraceptives are mixtures of two types of sex-hormones, an oestrogen and a progestogen. Another advantage of the progestogen-only pill may be increased safety. Research suggests that some of the serious side-effects seen occasionally with the conventional pill, such as increased blood-clotting and jaundice, may be due to the oestrogen components. Theoretically, therefore, it should be possible to produce a less risky pill with progestogen only. Recent preliminary studies with progestogens have shown that they may not affect the blood-clotting system or the liver in the same way as the conventional pill.

Even so, the same large-scale experience and research into any new oral contraceptive as went into the conventional pill will be needed before progestogen can be proved completely safe.

Doctor Curing Attitudes About Women

TORONTO (CP)—Disproving the old attitude that a woman's place is in the home seems to be what Dr. Bette Stephenson likes doing best.

May 13 she broke down another barricade of masculine dominance when she became the first woman vice-president in the 52-year history of the Ontario Medical Association. She stands a good chance of becoming president in 1970.

But her campaign for equality and responsibility started long ago, about the time she graduated from the University of Toronto medical school in 1946 and married Dr. G. A. Pengelly. She retains her maiden name Stephenson in her medical practice.

In the 23 years since her marriage, she has raised six children ranging in age from seven to 19, carried on a private practice with her husband, and has been active in the OMA.

Last year she scored another first for women MDs in Ontario when she was elected chairman of the OMA's board of directors.

"Women in North America have the freedom to choose what they want to do," she said in an interview Tuesday. "If they want to do something badly enough, they will."

Dr. Stephenson, whose 170-year-old farmhouse on the outskirts of Toronto also serves as her office, thinks medicine is an ideal profession for women.

Women doctors are often more aware of their responsibility to the public than their male counterparts, she said. Most women medical graduates in the last 25 years are utilizing their education in some way, through direct patient care, teaching or health service.

"There is no active discrimination against women in medicine today," she said. "A potentially good student will be accepted on her merit, provided she intends to use the education she acquires."

As vice-president of the OMA, Dr. Stephenson will have to deal with such questions as federal medical care and the shortage of research and instructional staff in Ontario medical schools.

Oscar's Ladies Wrapped Up

Clothes 'Race My Motor'

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD

NEW YORK — "These clothes really race my motor," said somebody at the end of Oscar de La Renta's fall fashion opening.

American designers, thank goodness, have finally unhitched themselves from the '20s and '30s and gone back even further to times when ladies were ladies and men apparently didn't care how much they spent on their clothes.

Oscar's ladies are wrapped in capes or shawls and their faces are hidden under Adolfo's mysterious slouch hats for daytime. At night they drip 20-millimetre pearls.

They wear an old-new hair-do by Suga, an all-around pompadour with a soft knot on top. It's terribly early 1900, terribly womanly and quite divine even with pants. They are the hairdos from the Sargent portraits in the Metropolitan Museum.

As a designer, Oscar is essentially a right man. He is famous for the glitter and the glamour, but this time some of his simple dresses were the most exciting. I mean the coverup long silver grey net or the pale gold net with a ruffled bib front. His red-haired model pinned a short gold veil to her hairdo.

Oscar is definitely pro-velvet, and he shows it either all beglittered like the gold-embroidered brown suit with only the sleeves left plain or else completely pristine, like a long green velvet coat over a skinty green velvet. A dress that raced everybody's motor was stark black velvet with a transparent yoke and no decoration except the velvet ruchings for collar and cuffs. There are no more belly dancers and gypsies, but

Oscar shows lots of harem pants, some all-over jewelled and worn with Turkish slippers; lots of feather-studded chiffons, diamond-studded satins, and dazzling laces, like the two long shirtwaist types with enormous jewelled flowers on the skirts.

Everything was wrapped like a glorious gift. The evening clothes were draped around and about the coq feather stoles at least eight feet long.

Tweed dresses were wrapped in shawls of the same fabric with deep silk fringe, or even more luxurious fur shawls with leather fringe that are part of the new de La Renta collection for Oliver Gintel.

The openings aren't a week old, but it looks already as if every woman who cares about clothes will be wearing a pavement-length coat and a long stole this fall.

***

Donald Brooks calls his new coats Regency. They are small through the shoulders and high-waisted with long, narrow sleeves. They come in everything from violet wool, to sealskin to a cheerful flower print by Julian Tom-chin on a raincoat fabric. Under them Donald Brooks shows short dresses, short suits, and long, lanky, sleeveless sweaters with shirts and pants.

The designer who did Julie Andrews' clothes for Star and dressed the whole cast for Promises, Promises is essentially a daytime man and likes a sporty look for even his party clothes.

***

He uses Julian Tomchin's prints all through the collection — Marco Polo which looks Oriental, and an abstract print on the new Quilana.

Except for a Cary Grant tuxedo and pants in black velvet, most of the dinner and evening clothes are black wool crepe with good shapes and good necklines. Two long Caravan dresses of pale pink printed velvet go on with the kooky story Donald Brooks had quite a hand in starting last year.

It was a highly competitive industry, made more complex because its true fate "has seemed to slip from our own hands." This had to be corrected soon.

Bread Bakers Vanish Under Monopoly Reign

OTTAWA (CP)—Monopoly in the various bread markets across Canada comes closer as each week and month passes, W. D. Harrison, president of the Bakery Council of Canada told delegates to the council's annual meeting Tuesday.

Harrison, of Montreal, told representatives of about 300 Canadian bakery companies that, through "the loss-leader tactics of many of the retail grocers and the blind adherence to these concepts by some of our bakers," the number of bread bakers will dwindle in the coming years.

The situation was "most unhealthy and unsavoury," he said the baking industry is "still enmeshed in the wheeling and dealing of discounts, rebates that are about as helpful to bakers as gasoline wars are to those who run service stations."

It was a highly competitive industry, made more complex because its true fate "has seemed to slip from our own hands." This had to be corrected soon.

Cardboard Mouthful Flavor of Future?

CHICAGO (AP)—Before long housewives may not have to bother opening packages to throw food into the pot. The packages may be part of the dinner.

Dr. J. F. Murphy, a vice-president of Swift and Co., said Tuesday that proteins which will dissolve at cooking temperatures are being worked on in laboratories.

"We may even offer a choice of flavored boxes, wrappers or bottles to complement or spice up the rest of the meal," he said.

Murphy spoke at the annual convention of the National Restaurant Association and said that edible food containers are just a part of the innovations in disposable food packaging.

Wife Wed Once Before

Mickey Marries No. 7

LAS VEGAS (UPI)—Pint-sized actor Mickey Rooney, 48, was married for the seventh time Tuesday to 25-year-old Carolyn Hackett, a former Miami secretary.

Rooney, who is appearing at a downtown hotel here, and Miss Hackett walked to the county courthouse after his final show early Tuesday and obtained their marriage license. She listed a previous divorce obtained in 1966 in Columbus, Ohio.

The couple then walked to a wedding chapel where they were married. Comedian Sid Gould, who is appearing with Rooney, was best man and his wife Sandra was mistress of honor. Rooney and his bride met several months ago when he was in Miami for an appearance on the Jackie Gleason television show.

Rooney's previous wives included Ava Gardner and Martha Vickers. Betty Jane Rose, Elaine Mahnken, Barbara Ann Thomson and Margie Lane, from whom he separated two months after their wedding here in 1966.

Rooney's fifth wife, Barbara, who bore him four children, was shot to death in 1966 by Yugoslavian actor Miroslav Mikovic, who then committed suicide. Rooney had filed for divorce a short time before the death.

Centre for Pensioners

Former Store Sought

CAMPBELL RIVER — Campbell River Old Age Pensioners have unanimously agreed to go ahead with the acquisition of the former liquor store at Campbell River for a recreation and activity centre.

The Liquor Control Board is asking $45,000 for the building on St. Ann's Road. The social welfare department has indicated that it will contribute $15,000 toward the purchase price.

***

A committee, consisting of Frank Wolfe and Les Austen, is investigating the project and will present to municipal council an application for assistance in buying the property. It was suggested at a recent meeting that a local law firm should be approached to help the committee to word the application.

The branch is considering chartering a bus for a trip to Gold River and Nootka in July.

However, members were told that plans depended on the current Vancouver Island Coach Lines bus strike.

Canon T. D. Proctor, past president, presented his membership to Mrs. Hetty Cunningham and John Saville.

Give Them Enough Rope . . .

Mickey Mouse face to clock on administration building. It is believed pranksters lowered themselves by rope from roof of building.—(AP)

Courtroom Parade

'So Much to Lose— Why Turn to Drugs?'

"When you had so much to lose, why did you start experimenting with drugs?" Magistrate William Ostler asked the young man before sentencing him to five months in jail.

"I don't know," replied Harry M. Smith, 23, of 3000 Tillicum Road.

Smith, who had pleaded guilty to charges of possession of narcotics and impaired driving, was arrested May 23 after he had lost control of the car he was driving.

Court was told that Smith was "completely disoriented" at the time, and didn't know where he was.

Evidence produced in court included a statement made by Smith at the time of his arrest concerning the amount of drugs he had taken.

"I've dropped five caps of acid," Smith said at the time, meaning he had taken five capsules of LSD.

He also told police that he had an ounce of marijuana in his room.

Defence counsel told court that Smith had tried hard to better himself in spite of his lengthy record, which included convictions for breaking, entering and theft.

In jail, Smith had enrolled in an academic program and successfully completed Grades 10, 11 and 12.

TRIED HARD
Smith then was allowed to enter university while on parole, but the courses proved too difficult for him, and he started working for his father's firm.

Character witnesses told court that Smith had changed completely and had really tried hard to adjust to society.

Smith's counsel, Rodney Beavan, asked the court for lenience, pointing out that unlike previous offences, possession of drugs was not directly aimed at others, like breaking and entering and theft.

"DO IT YOURSELF"
Magistrate Ostler said he was willing to disregard Smith's record and treat him as a first offender on the charges.

"I hope you realize that you can do it; that you can do it all by yourself. You must try to find your way back to society."

He sentenced him to five months in jail.

"I'm impressed by your endeavors. You are able, ambitious and intelligent. I think you did well, and I hope that you will do just as well after this is over," he said.

Teresa Mickey, 22, of no fixed address, was sentenced to 14 days in jail after pleading guilty to charges of vagrancy.

Frederick Chabon, 43, of 2526 Government, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance and was given 14 days in jail.

A 21-year-old man was sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading guilty to driving while his licence was suspended.

Victor Chorando, of 550 David, was arrested eight days after his driver's licence had been suspended for dangerous driving.

"Can I pay a fine?" he asked Magistrate Ostler.

"No you cannot," the magistrate replied. "You defied the orders of the court. You'll go to jail."

Richard C. Adamson, 19, of Langford, was fined $30 for being a minor on licensed premises.

Fastest Repeater

Out Only Five Days Man Back in Prison

A man who was released from William Head minimum security prison five days ago was sent back behind bars Tuesday for another two-year term.

Peter R. McCormick, 45, of no fixed address, was sentenced in central magistrates court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted fraud.

Court was told that McCormick tried to cash a government of Canada pension cheque in the amount of $212 which didn't belong to him.

The cheque was deposited by mistake in the motel apartment McCormick was occupying after his release from prison.

Prosecutor John MacIntyre said McCormick surely had the distinction of the fastest repeater.

"This is a record, your honor," he said.

Magistrate William Ostler said it was a "miserable and wretched job" to sentence a person like McCormick.

"I despise it, but what can I do?"

Soldier Drops In Baby Drops Out

TWYFORD, England (Reuters) — A British army parachutist missed his target and landed on a baby carriage in the midst of a crowd during a display in this Berkshire town Monday. The pram overturned and the baby fell out but was unhurt.

Against Vancouver

Sailing Race Won By Victoria Fleet

The Victoria Thunderbird Fleet No. 4 beat Vancouver's Fleet No. 9 in the weekend biennial team racing challenge sailed in Cadboro Bay.

In each of the five races, local sailors won after racing in a variety of conditions which included winds up to 25 miles an hour.

Each fleet was given five boats, but gear failure caused Vancouver's Umpka to withdraw from the first race.

To even out the side advantage, Victoria drew lots to disqualify one of its boats.

Bahat was top boat Saturday skippered by Dave Amstey. It came second in all three races.

Umpka was Sunday's winner. Navigated by Leigh Holland, it took two firsts.

Chief skippers of the Victoria crew were Dave Amstey, Gordie Nickells, Leigh Holland, Ned Ashe and Rod McBride.

Crew members included Archie Campbell, Steve Merriam, Karel Drost, Joyce and Ken MacLaren, Liz Holland, Bob Grundison, John Malleson, Dave Carere, John Booth, John Dewey, Richie Lloyd, Stan Cosborn, Glen Higgins and Bill Thompson.

Victoria's victories over the two days were five firsts, five seconds, two thirds and five fourths.

Canadian Cigarettes Six Months Later:

Nicotine Levels Almost As Before

OTTAWA (CP) — For persons who cannot or will not stop smoking, the federal health department Tuesday released results of second tests of tar and nicotine levels found in 86 brands of cigarettes on sale in Canada.

The idea behind the tests is to point out to smokers one way they can cut down on the amount of tar and nicotine they inhale with their cigarette smoke.

As in the November, 1968, tests, the Ransom and Richmond brands with the Strickman filter and Viscount king size filters showed the lowest level of tar—10 milligrams a cigarette.

The highest tar level was found in the Dunhill premium filter and the Goldcrest premium filter. Each showed 28 milligrams a cigarette.

As a general rule, the amount of nicotine increases as the amount of tar found goes up. Other cigarettes showing a low tar content were Craven A regular filter, the Viscount king size filter menthol and Matinee regular filter. Each tested 11 milligrams a cigarette.

Cigarettes which showed a high content of tar were St. Moritz premium filter menthol, Buckingham king size plain, Mark Ten king size plain. Each showed 27 milligrams a cigarette.

Health Minister John Munro, who has cut down from two packs daily to the occasional cigarette, said smokers should not be concerned about small differences in tar and nicotine levels in the different brands.

"The important thing is that some cigarettes have fairly low tar and nicotine levels, many have intermediate and some have high levels," he said in an accompanying statement.

"Cigarettes with high levels may have two to almost three times the levels of tar and nicotine found in other brands," he said.

Munro reminded Canadians that his department recommends that they do not smoke. For those who do, he suggested reducing the inhalation of tar, nicotine and other cigarette-smoke constituents.

Smokers should not rely on the brand of cigarette smoked as the only way to do this, the announcement said. Other ways were stretching out the time between puffs and cigarettes, by not inhaling, by removing the cigarette from the mouth between puffs and by throwing away a long butt.

Stricter Cigarette Warning Backed

Battle Shaping Up on House Floor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. House commerce committee tentatively agreed Tuesday to recommend strengthening the health warning on cigarette packages, but rejected a move to require the warning in advertising.

Committee members said the stronger package warning was adopted by a narrow 15-to-14 vote, but the advertising warning failed by about 18 to 7. Both actions will be subject to revision until a final draft bill is approved.

Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.) who offered the amendment to require a health warning in all cigarettes promotion, declared after the executive session that "the battle will be fought out on the House floor."

Reports from the session described the package warning as somewhat stronger than the present one, but far short of the strong declaration the Federal Trade Commission has proposed.

The committee warning would state that the surgeon-general has determined cigarette smoking is hazardous to health and is causally connected with lung cancer.

The FTC would require a warning also stating that cigarette smoking "is hazardous to health," but it would add "that smoking 'may cause death' from lung cancer and certain other diseases."

Members said the word death was not included in the version adopted by the commerce committee.

The present warning reads: "Caution: cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

Get Up and Do

At this time of the year, there is something of a tendency among inexperienced gardeners to feel that all the planting and sowing is done for the year, and there is nothing more to be done now except to keep the grass cut and the garden weeded and watered. This is a mistake.

There is always something to be sown or planted, and in our family, I don't think a single month of the year goes by when seeds or bulbs of one kind or another are not started.

Take gladioli, for instance. Several years ago I found a garden shop in town with a substantial stock of bulbs still unsold, and the proprietor was cutting his losses by offering them at about one-third their normal price.

Although this was well into June, the bulbs were in excellent condition, firm and hard and not too badly sprouted. And as the varieties were the expensive kinds I couldn't afford to buy at the regular prices, I took a chance and bought them.

Planted into warm soil, those bulbs forged ahead, making growth at a much more rapid pace than the earlier plantings, and at the end of the season there wasn't a great deal of difference in the flowering time. The bulbs from this planting are among my most treasured possessions today.

In the vegetable plot, we are binging seeds in the ground all summer long, for with a lot of the fast-growing kinds, the only way to avoid gaps and to maintain an uninterrupted flow of tender young vegetables to the table is to keep on making succession sowings. This is particularly true of radishes, leaf lettuce, green onions from sets, and those little white table turnips, delicious when pulled at golf-ball size.

Believe it or not, I have had ripe tomatoes from seeds sown directly in the open ground as late as June. Here again, the warm soil and congenial growing conditions bring the plants along at a surprising rate, and these open-sown tomatoes have one big advantage over the set-out plants — they are never transplanted.

They live their whole life, from seed germination until harvest, in the same ground, without any root disturbance at all. I have often wondered how much precious growing time is lost every time we transplant a tomato while the plant recovers from the inevitable injury and shock to its roots.

The trick with these late-sown, open-ground seeds is to get very rapid germination by covering each sown seed with an up-ended jam jar until the seedling shows, then to thin them ruthlessly until each plant has ample elbow room in which to develop.

This technique is especially rewarding with green peppers. There seems to be a feeling that these plants are sub-tropical and therefore difficult to grow in our climate, but if started late under warm conditions, I have found peppers, on the whole, somewhat easier to grow than tomatoes.

For one thing, you don't have to wait for them to grow to maturity. Tomatoes aren't much good until they turn red, but even newly-formed baby green peppers can be picked to impart their unique flavor to salads, stews, hash and spaghetti.

Incidentally, if you are lucky enough to own a home freezer, green peppers can be picked and thrown into the freezer without preparation of any kind.

Appleseed Thwarted

One of the problems of educating our little ones is that the legends we parents cut our eye teeth on are sadly out of date. It's no wonder our children grow up with all sorts of useless, antiquated values.

Herewith, then, is the first in a series of Up-to-Date Legends for Our Times. Its title: Johnny Appleseed Meets the Tac Squad.

Once upon a time there was an idealistic young man named Johnny Appleseed. He loved apple trees, birds, apple blossoms, squirrels, apple juice, human beings and apples indiscriminately.

"You must make something of yourself, son," said his father. "Why don't you become a real estate developer?"

"I shall pass this way only once, Father," said Johnny. "And I have but one desire: that the world shall be a lovelier place for my having passed through. Therefore, I have decided to wander through life planting apple trees wherever I may go."

"What have I done," said his father with a groan, "to deserve a hippie son?"

But Johnny was determined. And he left the Appleseed home in Megalopolis with a seedling, a shovel and five pounds of fertilizer on his back.

But, of course, Megalopolis was all covered with concrete and asphalt and he wandered miles before he found some dirt. It was in a vacant lot.

And the sign said, "Property of the University of Megalopolis."

"How fortunate," said Johnny, "for surely universities approve of spreading loveliness."

So he took off his pack and began digging a hole. A crowd of the curious gathered. "What are you doing?" asked one.

"I am planting an apple tree," said Johnny happily. "It will grow and grow. In the spring it will be a cloud of blossoms to delight passers-by. In the summer, children will swing beneath its branches and lovers will lounge in its shade. And in the fall, people will come to pluck the fruit, bite through the sun-warmed skin and taste God."

The people thought this a marvelous idea. And they all pitched in to plant grass and flower beds and...

"Our plans call for building a Department of Theology or Thatology on that vacant lot some day," said the University Chancellor. "And if it's got an apple tree on it, it will no longer be vacant." So he called out the campus police.

"Planting an apple tree without a permit shows you to what desperate measures these advocates of lawlessness and anarchy will go," said the Mayor. And he called out the Tac Squad.

"These many malcontents are destroying the sacred right of public officials to keep public property private," said the Governor. And he called out the National Guard.

So a helmeted officer uprooted Johnny's seedling for evidence. Two more blinded Johnny with tear gas. Three more filled his backside with buckshot as he fled. And four more carted him off to jail.

Young Appleseed learned his lesson. He became an energetic real estate developer. In fact, he was credited with replacing 3268 acres of apple orchards with housing tracts. And he was awarded a scroll as "The Man Who Helped Build a Greater Megalopolis."

So he died rich in wealth and honors. Kind friends attributed to senility the mysterious phrase he sighed over and over on his death bed: "It was all so fruitless. It was all so..."

Youngsters Total Actors

By JAMES MASON

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — When conversations with strangers drop to inevitable standstills, someone revives matters by asking me who my favorite living actors are. I suppose that word "living" is to inject a note of controversy. To save everyone this question in future encounters in elevators and on airplanes when conversation seems imperative, here are my thoughts.

I can't single anyone out because there are a lot of extremely good actors, and the obvious ones—restricting it to English-speaking actors—are, of course, Marlon Brando and Laurence Olivier.

Brando is undoubtedly the most effective, and unquestionably an enormously gifted actor. In fact he is more effective in extreme mediums than Laurence Olivier ever was, but Olivier was a much more complete actor. He is a more mature man and consequently he uses his acting talents to better purpose than does Brando.

Both are extremely gifted. But who is to say who is the perfect actor, or who is the most gifted actor, or who is the actor who really operates, functions best as an actor? It is pure twaddle.

There have been a number of terribly gifted actors; the ones who have the young approach are much more interesting, much more adaptable and more flexible than somebody of my own age or even the age between.

Most of the young actors and actresses—the better ones we shall say—really want to get at the bones of true acting and they are not going to be fobbed off by some side issue, like making themselves appear charming or as beautiful as possible.

The Hollywood tradition of the old generation of actresses was to mould and create an enormously charming personality. The image of film stars in pre-war days in Hollywood was of extremely polished and charming people. Their natural charms were used to the very best advantage.

This doesn't matter nowadays. Acting matters so much more to these youngsters.

For instance I was terribly impressed when I worked in Lolita with Sue Lyon, who was only about 14 or 15 then. She was marvellous, extremely talented and adaptable. We did a lot of improvised rehearsal as we had a lot of time to rehearse on that film. The way she responded to this was absolutely glorious. Her mind really tickled over and she supplied an enormous number of lines of her own, which in fact were incorporated in the script in many instances.

Educated, Ignorant

Other people may despair about what they call the "lower classes." But I don't. I despair more about the "upper classes." About the affluent, the educated, the influential — and the basically ignorant.

The U.S. magazine, Nation's Business, asked its affluent, educated, and influential readers this spring: "How can we best get law and order?" And the overwhelming answer came back: "Get tough with the law-breakers."

This is so basically ignorant that even the most ignorant member of the lower classes would laugh at it. Because it doesn't work. It never has, and it never will.

These magazine readers — who are totally insulated from reality in their little business cells and their snug suburban hideaways — uniformly demand "Quit codding the lawbreaker," and "Reverse the recent findings of the Supreme Court," and "Get more judges with the guts to serve a penalty," and "More discipline for our youth," and so on in the same vein.

Why have the laws, and the handling of criminals, become more lenient over the years and over the centuries? Simply because harshness turned out to be the wrong way to handle the problem. When they used to hang people for stealing handkerchiefs, it didn't lower the rate of stealing handkerchiefs — it just upped the rate of murdering the man who stole it from.

What these affluent, educated, influential and dumb citizens don't seem to grasp — or don't want to grasp — is that the quality of justice in a state determines the rate of criminality, and not "law and order."

People are fond of pointing to England's orderly system, and they mistakenly believe that the crime rate there is low because of the severity of sentence. Actually, the average sentence in England is shorter than in the U.S.

But in England, the judicial system is wholly divorced from politics. Defendants are given a speedy hearing. The police behave properly and do not treat a poor man any different than a rich man.

The quality of justice is swift, evenhanded, uncorrupt-ible and based on the fact that if the police don't use undue force, the criminals won't. And they don't.

It is, however, expensive and laborious to reform the whole police-political-judicial system in the U.S. — a system that makes the so-called lower classes contemptuous and cynical about the law.

Moreover, it is perfectly plain in U.S. society that the more you have and the more you steal, the more likely you are to get away with it.

This is the canker in the U.S. body politic. It has nothing to do with "codding" or the Supreme Court or permissive parents. It has everything to do with public corruption, private hypocrisy, and gross inequities in the law.

Another Comedy Started by Chaplin

LONDON — Charlie Chaplin, 80 last month, has given up his plans to give up movies and will make one more: a "comedy in the Chaplin tradition entitled 'The Freak'."

The announcement was made by the London representative, Jay Epstein, who said the only people set in the cast are Chaplin's daughters Josephine, 20, and Victoria, 18. The script is finished, shooting will start in the fall and the film will be released in the spring of 1970.

BROOKLINE, Mass. — The birthplace of the late president John Kennedy will be dedicated a national historical site Thursday, the day he would have been 52 years old. Mrs. Rose Kennedy, the late president's mother, will present the deed to the two-story frame house to the government.

NEW YORK — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller plans to bequeath to the Museum of Modern Art 25 paintings and sculptures from his private collection. They have a total current value of $2,000,000 and include seven Picassos.

SEATTLE — Former almanac Antonio West and Arthur Alkema, first sentenced in 1966 to hang for the robbery-murders of three service station attendants, were convicted after a new trial. They are to hang July 11.

NEW WESTMINSTER — Dennis Cocke, a 20,000-a-year life insurance company executive, defeated three other men to win the NDP New Westminster nomination for the next B.C. election. NDP member Rae Eddie is retiring.

VANCOUVER — Pilot Neil Stevens, whose vintage Tiger Moth was ruled unfit for the recent trans-Atlantic air race, said he intends to fly the plane across the Atlantic in July. He won a $5,200 consolation award from the oceanic race's sponsors.

TORONTO — Thieves who took the car of Antonio Bello, a TV repair equipment worth $1,500 but didn't touch Shorty, his German pointer, who was in the trunk. Bello told police the dog, normally grumpy, would be in an even fouler mood than usual when found. But the dog was too hungry and exhausted to cause any trouble.

PITTSBURGH — Former U.S. Supreme Court justice Arthur Goldberg declined an offer from the United Steelworkers Union of a pension of $25,000 a year for his service as the union's chief lawyer.

HOLLYWOOD — Canadian Edgar Bronfman was named chairman of MGM, the film-producing studio, where chairman Robert O'Brien recently was ousted in a power struggle. MGM losses could reach $19,000,000 for this fiscal year.

AGASSIZ — John Green, the province's best-known Sasquatch hunter, left to investigate reported sightings of the hairy, man-like animal near Merritt.

TUCSON, Ariz. — Allan Haines Lockhead, pioneer aircraft builder and aviator, died at 80.

Movie 'Christ' Falls on Head, Dies

VAN NUYS, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Jeffrey Hunter, who played the role of Christ in 1960s 'King of Kings' died Tuesday of injuries suffered in a fall at his home.

Hunter, 42, had appeared in some 30 pictures and numerous television shows, including Alfred Hitchcock dramatic hours. A native of New Orleans whose real name was Henry McKinnies, Hunter was taken to Valley Hospital before dawn and died at 9:30 a.m. His third wife, Emily, was notified by hospital authorities of the death.

A friend of the family said the actor had fallen down a flight of stairs at his home and suffered head injuries.

Hunter was a tall, athletic man whose movies included 'Dreamboat, 14 Hours, Hell to Eternity, The Proud Ones, Call Me Mister, White Feather and Red Skies of Montana.

In more recent years he appeared in 'Vendetta' and 'Brainstorm.'

In private life he piloted his own airplane and was a speedboat enthusiast. He was formerly married to actresses Barbara Rush and Dusty Bartlett.

Hunter's family moved from New Orleans to Milwaukee when he was 4. He grew up in the Wisconsin city, distinguishing himself as an athlete and won a scholarship to Northwestern University. He served in the United States Navy during the Second World War, later graduated from Northwestern and came to Hollywood in 1950 where he was signed to a long-term contract to 20th Century-Fox.

Daughter Approves Of 'Bed-In'

MONTREAL (UPI)—The "bed-in" of Beatle John Lennon and his wife Yoko wound up last first day here Tuesday, and won the approval of Yoko's five-year-old daughter Kyoko.

During the day, the first of seven the Lennons are spending in bed at the Queen Elizabeth Hotel here, Yoko commented that her daughter knew the purpose of the demonstration and that she liked the idea.

"I like it, I like it," chimed in the bang-wearing youngster.

Yoko called her daughter "a very unusual, very intelligent child; she's a great help to us." The couple are putting in 12-hour stints (10 a.m.-10 p.m.) daily for a week, because, Lennon said, "it might give other people ideas to promote peace. We don't care what the ideas are," he said.

His wife added, "people might want to take their clothes off." When asked what he intended to do after the day's shift ended, Lennon replied, "We eat, and then collapse—this is hard work."

ROYAL LONDON WAX MUSEUM—In the Crystal Garden Swimming Pool building across from the back entrance of The Empress Hotel. See over 100 life-size Josephine Tussaud wax figures direct from London, England, including newly arrived scenes President Richard M. Nixon of the United States and "The Martyrs of Hope" scene with John Fitzgerald Kennedy and Martin Luther King. See the Famous of Yesterday and Today. The Hall of famous People. The Chilling Chamber of Horrors and the Enchanted Fairyland. The Royal London Wax Museum has entertainment for the whole family. Open 9 a.m. - 10 p.m. including Sundays 388-4461.

COWICHAN FOREST MUSEUM—Nowhere else in North America is there a depiction of forest growth and the tools men used to harvest its resources comparable to this. Recaptured here on beautifully timbered Lakeside grounds are the glory days of logging, and you can see it all aboard a stout little steam train chugging along a narrow-gauge track that takes you through woods and over water. This unique museum, on Highway No. 1, one mile north of Duncan, offers fun and interest for all your family. Open daily from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Jimmie Little, 79

Landmark Owner Dies

A former Victoria business man died Tuesday morning in Hawaii, less than a week after the store that bore his name for almost 49 years closed its doors for the last time.

Jimmie Little, who had been seriously ill for some time, would have been 80 years old on Saturday.

A native of Sussex, England, Mr. Little was a trained chef and cooked in London and Paris before emigrating to New York where he was chef for millionaire August Belmont.

EMPRESS CHEF

His first job in Victoria was as a chef in the Empress Hotel. He left that position to work as cook on the hydrographic tug Restless during the First World War.

Before opening his well-known "big little department store," Mr. Little operated the coffee shop in front of the Two Jacks, a billiards parlor on the east side of Government Street near Yates, and the Little Arctic confectionery at Cordova Bay.

In 1920, he bought his first store from R. P. Butchart. It was very small, but he made two additions to it before building the present structure at Quadra and Pembroke in 1928.

POWER SHOVEL

The first gasoline-operated steam shovel in Victoria was used to excavate the store's basement.

Mr. Little's store—the store with everything—pioneered long store hours in the area, remaining open from 9 a.m. until 2 a.m. every day of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Little retired to Hawaii ten years ago while their daughter and son-in-law, Dorothy and Don McAlpine, continued to operate the business.

The store's sale was announced in February and it closed last week. The property will change hands Saturday.

Peninsula Needs Pickers

Several hundred pickers will soon be needed for early-ripening strawberries, George Bevis, manager of the Victoria Manpower Centre, announced Tuesday.

"Early berry picking will begin in a few days," Mr. Bevis said Tuesday. He said the weather is a factor which can speed up or slow the ripening processes, but "we must have several hundred pickers standing by, ready."

The farm labor section is located at the Humboldt Street entrance of the Belmont Building, in the temporary workers' office.

Blood Goal Approached

Blood donors turned out Tuesday in force to put the Red Cross blood donor clinic within reach of its three-day goal.

After a slow start Monday with 104 pints, the Tuesday total rose abruptly to 327—an addition of 223 pints. The three-day goal of 550 pints must be met today, supervisor A. T. Lashmar said.

The clinic will be in operation from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. today at CFB Esquimalt.

Balanced Budget Expected

No Tax Jump Likely

OTTAWA (CP)—A major reduction in the federal government's budgetary deficit from what was forecast last year makes it more likely that Finance Minister Edgar Benson will be able to balance the budget this year without a major increase in taxes this spring. Benson confirmed in an interview Tuesday that the considerable improvement in revenues and reduced spending "certainly makes it no more difficult to achieve a balance."

He repeated it is still his intention to balance the budgetary accounts by next March 31. The deficit for the 1968-69 fiscal year ended March 31 was reported in the minister's pre-budget white paper, tabled in the Commons Tuesday, at

$566,000,000. This compared with an actual deficit in 1967-68 of $794,800,000—the second highest on record—and a forecast deficit of $675,000,000 which he made last Oct. 22. The white paper called for continuing restraint on spend-

Language Bill:
'Now I Know
My Friends'
Says Stanfield

Prairie Tories Revolt

By MARJORIE NICHOLS

OTTAWA (Special) — Robert Stanfield is facing the first major crisis of his leadership in the wake of a Commons vote Tuesday night which saw 17 members of the 72-man Conservative caucus break party line to vote against the official languages bill.

The 17 Tories, including former prime minister John Diefenbaker, cast the only votes against the controversial bill, which was given second reading by an overwhelming majority of 197 to 17.

Diefenbaker, 73, was ousted at a 1967 party leadership convention which elected Stanfield as his successor. But some Conservatives have never recognized the change in leadership. The rebels who voted against Stanfield's wishes and against the bill comprised all five Conservatives from Manitoba, all five from Saskatchewan, six from Alberta and one, Robert Coates, from Nova Scotia.

MORE REBELS

The number of defections from the party policy as laid down by Stanfield was greater than the Tories had expected. They had hoped that at least six Prairie MPs would stay out of the Commons and thus reduce the vote against the bill to 10 or 11.

Stanfield took the blow philosophically. "It's great to know who your friends are," he told reporters.

STILL DRAMATIC

While second reading votes have been de-emphasized under new Commons rules — they were formerly considered approval in principle — Tuesday's vote was in keeping with the tradition of dramatic second readings.

The bill now goes to committee for possible amendments before third reading and the final passage test. Stanfield and the 40 other Conservatives who rose to vote for the bill were given a thundering round of applause from government, Creditiste and NDP benches.

As the caucus rebels rose one by one to register their disapproval, the Conservative leaders sat silently, staring straight ahead at the Liberal benches. What embittered several members of the pro-Stanfield group was the fact that it was

Traps
200

NEW YORK (AP) — A smoky, flash fire disabled a Penn Central railway train Tuesday, trapping 200 commuters deep in a tunnel under the Hudson River. One man was reported killed and 92 persons were injured.

The passengers, trapped momentarily in the darkened and smoke-clogged tunnel, flung open windows and doors and leaped to the ground. They groped cautiously on catwalks, some for as long as 40 minutes, to the New Jersey side of the tunnel.

Police identified the dead man as Will J. Thompson, 53, of Rahway, N.J., a railroad conductor on sick leave, who was riding as a passenger.

THIRD RAIL

Police said Thompson touched a live third rail after leaving the burning train.

The injured, most suffering minor injuries and smoke inhalation, were treated at five New Jersey hospitals. Some passengers were treated at the scene while others were placed aboard special trains and sent to Newark where a large number of ambulances was assembled.

SHORT CIRCUIT

Police said the fire apparently started from a short circuit in the second car.

All traffic through the tunnel in and out of New York was halted, delaying trains to and from Washington, among others.

For the most part, the passengers kept calm and walked single file along the catwalks to safety. The first ones out of the tunnel climbed a steep hill to a nearby highway and called for police help.

Shooting

Mixed Jury Acquits Officers

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP) — A biracial jury quickly found nine white South Carolina highway patrolmen innocent Tuesday of civil rights violations in the shooting of 30 young Negroes, including three who died, in Orangeburg last year.

The jurors, including two Negroes, deliberated one hour and 29 minutes. They had to consider the case of each of the nine defendants separately.

Killed during the Orangeburg confrontation were Delano Middleton, 17, an Orangeburg high school pupil, and South Carolina State students Henry Smith, 19, of Marion and Samuel Hammond, 20, of Ft. Lauderdale. The troopers were charged by the United States justice department after the Feb. 8, 1968, shooting near the campus of South Carolina State College.

The defence contended the troopers fired in self defence when confronted by an attacking mob of about 200 Negroes.

Towing Epic
Starts

Despite slight troubles at beginning of journey, giant oil drilling rig, SEDCO 135-F, moves down Alberni Inlet on way to New Zealand. Stiff breezes, and minor towing problems, delayed tug William Barends from starting voyage from Port Alberni Monday. However both tug and rig were reported doing well Tuesday. Rig, which was built in Victoria, will have to cover 8,200 miles before reaching destination.—(Agnes Fleet)

Snowy Mt. Baker

Search Clue

GLACIER, Wash. (AP) — A 10-man search party encountered blowing snow on the southwest side of Mt. Baker Tuesday while combing the 10,778-foot peak for four Vancouver residents missing since Sunday.

But volunteers from the B.C. search and rescue team and the Whatcom County Rescue Council reported finding a car believed to have been used by the four and some skis. The car was found at the end of a forestry road and the skis were located further up the mountain, Bruce Kirkland, district ranger for the forest service here, identified the four as Mario Strim, John Delmyer, Judy Small and Maggie Secrett. All are believed to be about 27. Kirkland said the four apparently drove from near Glacier on a forest service road to the foot of the Northern Cascades mountain and began their ascent Sunday morning. When they failed to descend by 3 a.m. Monday, a friend reported them missing. The four were dressed in ski clothes, but it was not known whether they carried food.

After Coup, Treason Trials

Sudan Corruption Charged

CAIRO (UPI) — The revolutionary government of Sudan, describing the United States as a "threat" to Arabs, announced Wednesday it will put deposed government ministers and military officers on trial for alleged corruption.

Other opponents of the regime will be punished for treason, it said.

An official statement broadcast over Khartoum radio also said new premier Abubaker Awadallah's government, which seized power Sunday, had recognized communist East Germany and met for undisclosed reasons with the Red Chinese charge d'affaires.

The Middle East News Agency reported from Khartoum, meanwhile, that East Germany responded by offering to supply arms to the Sudan.

Al Ahram, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper, interviewed the military strongman of the new regime, Col. Gaafar El-Numeiri, and quoted him as saying "we shall shortly create civilian and military courts before which those accused of bribery and corruption will stand trial." He said the defendants would include deposed government members and senior army officers dismissed for opposition to the coup.

Bitter Runoff

Negro Challenger Gains
In Big Los Angeles Vote

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Negro challenger Thomas Bradley chipped away Tuesday night at an early lead built up by incumbent Sam Yorty in returns from a bitter runoff election for mayor of the third largest city in the U.S.

With 765 of the city's 2,890 precincts reporting, Yorty had 125,998 votes to Bradley's 99,045. Yorty had slipped from an early high of 65 per cent of the vote counted to 55.98 per cent while Bradley had risen to 44.01 per cent.

At one point, Yorty held 65 per cent of the ballots counted from the record vote turnout. But with 516 of the city's 2,890 precincts reporting, Yorty had 86,879 votes, or 56 per cent of the total counted, to city councilman Bradley's 68,045 votes or 44 per cent.

In the April primary election, Bradley drew 42 per cent of the vote to Yorty's 26 per cent and the councilman was favored in public opinion polls prior to Tuesday's balloting.

Nearly one million voters flocked to the voting booths. By the time the polls closed at 7 p.m., an estimated 75 per to 80 per cent of the city's 1,127,224 registered voters had cast ballots, city clerk Rex Layton said. The previous high for a municipal election was the April 1 primary in which 66.2 per cent voted.

Voter interest was stirred by the sometimes vitriolic campaign with racial overtones that preceded the runoff.

Voting was reported heaviest in Negro areas, although voting also was heavier than usual in white neighborhoods.

Space Sounds 'Blasphemy'

MIAMI (AP)—The Apollo 10 astronauts carried the "language of the street" to the moon, a Bible college president charged Tuesday. He called on them to repent their "p r o f a n i t y, vulgarity and blasphemy."

Dr. Larry Poland, president of non-denominational Miami Bible College, said he sent a telegram to President Nixon and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration asking that the three astronauts apologize for their language. "I've gotten calls from many people who were astounded that they were broadcasting things like that 240,000 miles from the moon when it's the kind of language you expect to see on the restroom wall," Poland said. "It was in serious bad taste and indiscreet, I felt. Poland, in his telegram, asked that "each astronaut who used such language be required to issue a public statement of apology . . . and I further request that all military and civil decorations of these men be withheld until such public apology is made."

Bloody Mountain

SAIGON (AP) — United States paratroopers today abandoned Dong Ap Bia, a 3,000-foot mountain they seized a week ago in a battle that touched off a storm of controversy. (See earlier story Page 3.)

Troopers of the 101st Airborne Division seized the mountain May 20 after 10 days of bloody fighting that cost 50 Americans killed and 300 wounded.

The American casualties stirred criticism of the assault in Congress, but the U.S. command claimed it was a "fine operation" with more than 600 North Vietnamese soldiers killed.

The paratroopers "have completed their search of the mountain and now are continuing their reconnaissance in force mission through the A Shau Valley," a spokesman for the 101st Airborne Division said.

IWA Makes Appeal To Presidents

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America Tuesday skirted the forest industry's official bargaining agent and appealed directly to company presidents for re-opening of the union's master contract.

Jack MacKenzie IWA regional vice-president, wrote to the presidents of about 130 firms represented at the bargaining table by Forest Industrial Relations Ltd.

“The letter repeated warnings of IWA officials that employer-employee relations were deteriorating in the industry and that there was an accumulation of grievances other than wages. FIR recently rejected IWA's bid to re-open the two-year master agreement to consider a 12 per cent general wage increase for about 27,000 IWA workers on the coast.

On June 1, the workers will receive an 18-cent hourly boost to begin the second year of the agreement. It will raise the basic rate in the industry to $3.12 hourly.

But Mr. MacKenzie's letter said union members could not accept the FIR statement that wages have kept pace with the cost of living, and added:

“Still worse, they see in prospect a continuing wave of inflation that will further lower their standards of living . . . workers who are kept in a state of desperation about the security of their families cannot be persuaded to accept erroneous statistical conclusions with advice that they should remain content.”

North Cowichan Commission Told:

Trained Leaders Needed To Help With Recreation

NORTH COWICHAN — North Cowichan recreation commission will investigate the possibility of leadership training.

Commissioner Stan Baker said Monday night: “Leadership training is one of the functions of the recreation commission. It is lacking in this community. We have to have leaders before we have the facilities.”

Mr. Baker pointed out that a lack of properly-trained leaders affected different youth groups in the area.

Commissioner Louise Hamilton said playground supervisors would definitely profit from a leadership training course.

Mr. Baker said: “It is time this recreation commission did some work in this direction to show the public that we are functioning.”

JOINT PROGRAM

He suggested, that because the leadership training was on a sharing basis with the provincial government, they should investigate the possibility of carrying out a joint training program with other communities.

“It is apparent we cannot have a good recreation program without leaders.”

Commission members agreed that it would not be possible to have a training course this year because no provision had been made in this year's budget. It will be considered next year.

North Cowichan municipality will be requested to send some equipment for Crofton beach clean-up Saturday.

FIRMS HELPING

Mr. Baker said residents at Crofton were organizing the clean-up campaign and many volunteers were expected to take part.

Private firms will donate their trucks and equipment and some men will bring their power saws. The municipality will also be asked to post warning signs at boat launching ramps at Kin Park, Crofton, Maple Bay and Quamichan Lake to keep swimmers away,

Port Alberni Aldermen Annoyed

PORT ALBERNI—The highways department was sharply criticized again Monday over a newly constructed road junction outside Port Alberni.

The attack was launched during a Port Alberni city council meeting by an angry motel owner. Criticism was also expressed by Mayor Fred Bishop and several aldermen.

“I've had lawyers tell me that the engineers who designed the junction outside Port Alberni should be prosecuted,” said Danny Wilkinson, owner of the Green Door Motel, Redford Street.

OCCUPANCY FEE

He and other motel owners attended the meeting to hear council's decision on an occupancy fee for mobile homeowners.

However Mr. Wilson centred his comments on two aspects of the junction—safety and loss of tourist business.

He said almost all tourist accommodation was mainly on Redford Street which had always been the main road into Port Alberni.

ACCESS ROAD

With construction of a new access road into Port Alberni north—as the former city of Alberni has been called since amalgamation—a complicated access system had been set up at the junction of the two roads.

He said tourists, and some residents who were unfamiliar with the new arrangement, had been funnelled directly into the “old town.”

Mr. Wilkinson said that to reach the main business area of Port Alberni, a left turn was required—directly across the path of unchecked traffic out of north Port Alberni.

The junction was discussed when the matter was raised by Ald. Garnet Reynolds at last month's council meeting. Since then some signs and dividers have been erected.

On Monday, Ald. Reynolds claimed “that junction is still a monstrosity. To me, it's unbelievable that engineers could create a thing like this. If they don't change it quickly, someone will be killed.”

Ald. George McKnight said it was “a real death trap.”

“We should be protesting the highways department's high-handed action. There are many ways to provide a far safer and adequate entrance to both sides of the city.”

“I consider the highways department has acted in a very arbitrary manner. They didn't discuss their plans with anyone and when a delegation from city council approached them, they were told ‘that's how it is and that's that.’”

Mayor Bishop said the highways department explained the route had been laid out because the new road provided the easiest access to Tolino and because of poor visibility on a long curve on the left.

“Any argument we put up was to no avail. Their minds were made up and we could do nothing to change the plans.”

Mayor Bishop promised to raise the matter again with MIA Dr. Howard MacDiarmid, who was present when the original civic delegation discussed the matter with the highways department.

Council staff has been asked to look into appropriate wording for signs and Ald. Charles Blair has promised to take the matter up with the chamber of commerce.

“I've had lawyers look at that junction and they just couldn't believe it,” Mr. Wilkinson said. “There is a no ‘yield sign’ to protect motorists trying to get across to the access to Port Alberni. The highways department certainly hasn't eliminated any hazards, they've just created a big new one.”

Nanaimo Bathtubs

Laing May Join Race

NANAIMO — A federal minister may be entering Nanaimo's Great Bathub Race July 20.

Commodore Les Mottishaw told about 40 members of the bathtub society during a meeting Tuesday, at Wallace Street Legion headquarters that Public Works Minister Arthur Laing, who was in Nanaimo Sunday for Coal Tyee Day, had asked for an entry form.

Mr. Mottishaw said there would be a street parade organized by the Lions and the Legion would hold a Queen Neptune Dance July 17. The Seraxmen's Club would hold a King Neptune ball the following day and Prince Neptune would be the first baby born after the starting guns launch the race at 10 a.m.

The race would be launched by six naval vessels in the harbor, which will fire their guns, fire sirens and all other noises which could be mustered to start at a signal announced by the local radio station, said Mr. Mottishaw.

The Noon Kiwanis would have three bathtubs joined behind Shoreline Hotel over which a beef carcass will be barbecued. The barbecue, at a date yet to be set, would feature a new sauce to be called the Beef Dip, the recipe for which would be published for housewives to copy, said Mr. Mottishaw. The fish and game club would have a salmon barbecue from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. July 18.

There have been 100 entries so far, Miss Sylvia Koster, secretary, said there were none this time last year because preparations had not got underway then.

Crofton Mill Scores Safety Record

CROFTON — A new record in safety achievement for Canada has been set by the electrical department at Crofton Pulp and Paper Ltd., with the completion of 4,000 accident-free calendar days.

The achievement of 650,000 man-hours without a “time-lost” accident has been marked by a banquet for the men and their wives when the mill manager's award was presented by G. G. Flater, manager.

The crew, consisting of 44 men, is aiming for an award of honor which is presented by the National Safety Council for the completion of 810,000 accident-free man hours.

Crofton Pulp and Paper Ltd., gained the distinction of being the safest mill in B.C. last year and came second in the national competition for the safest mill in Canada.

Individual and departmental efforts, such as the electrical department's recent accomplishment, were responsible for the success enjoyed by Crofton Pulp and Paper Ltd., in accident prevention, said Kent Elliott, assistant industrial relations superintendent.

Legion Holds Awards Night

CAMPBELL RIVER — Legion and auxiliary members were honored at an awards night organized recently by Campbell River branch of the Royal Canadian Legion.

Dominion Command Officer Ralph Gibson of Royston presented a past officer's medal and certificate of merit to Canon T. D. Proctor, life member of the branch, for outstanding service to the Legion since 1929. Canon Proctor also received a plaque honouring him as Chaplain Emeritus of the branch.

GOOD DEEDS

Making the presentation, Mr. Gibson said to Canon Proctor: “May the good deeds done by you be our encouragement.”

Mr. Gibson also presented honorary life memberships to Andrew Prince, A. W. (Robbie) Robinson, and Guy Austen, First World War veterans.

North Island Zone Commander Edwin Hay presented past officers' medals to Dick Kelton and Dave Warner, and a past president's medal to Art Harling. The branch received an award for having achieved the highest percentage of new members within the zone.

Certificates of merit were presented to Mrs. Ann Johnston for her work in the sports training program, and to Jack Kruse who has acted as chef for various Legion functions for 18 years.

Auxiliary president Mrs. Betty Jacobs presented plaques for faithful service to Mrs.

Grace Sampson, Mrs. Golda Miller, Mrs. Nancy Robinson and Mrs. Alice Williamson.

A special auxiliary award was made to Andrew Walker for his help with the women's annual Burns Night suppers. For nearly 30 years, Mr. Walker has given the address to the haggis.

He said the society was not disbanding but would be holding regular monthly meetings to make plans for a better fair in 1970.

“We'll have one then that will really be worthy of the name, Vancouver Island Exhibition, and will be worthy of Nanaimo city.”

Exhibition Out This Year

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island Exhibition will not be held this year and society members hope this will not affect its B classification.

President Jim Mills said he had been contacting agriculture department officials to explain the situation which led to a decision.

It was decided not to hold the fair because the barns and outbuildings were in such poor repair that there was a safety risk, he said.

He said the society was not disbanding but would be holding regular monthly meetings to make plans for a better fair in 1970.

Oak Bay Seeks Facts On 'Wild' Assessments

By NANCY BROWN

Wildly fluctuating tax assessments in Oak Bay have apparently been made in an unfair and arbitrary manner, Ald. G. Scott Wallace told council Monday night.

"Some taxpayers will have to pay somewhere between 35 and 70 per cent more than last year, while I believe in other cases the assessment has actually decreased," Ald. Wallace said.

One taxpayer who paid $900 in taxes last year will have to pay $1,500 this year, he said.

Council decided to gather facts and approach the provincial assessor to find if matters can be relieved.

"I've had several complaints and the administrator has some too," said Mayor Fred Hawes.

Mailing of tax notices has not been completed in the municipality.

"I feel it is outrageous that someone should have to pay a 70-per-cent increase in one year," said Ald. Wallace. "I also find it extremely puzzling to hear some assessments have actually decreased in value while every other commodity is increasing."

Legislation has been changed during the past year so that the 5-per-cent ceiling on individual assessments has been discontinued. Instead, the 5-per-cent ceiling now applies over-all to the school district.

Oak Bay is part of School

District 61, which also includes Victoria, Esquimalt and urban Saanich.

"The people who approached me," said Ald. Wallace, "feel this increase has been made in an arbitrary way and they say their neighbors' assessment increase has been practically nil."

"We have no real influence in having the rules changed because assessors come under the provincial government, but the government should know that many people in Oak Bay would like to feel a specific formula is being applied. They would like to feel that people vis-a-vis each other are being treated fairly," he said.

Ald. Douglas Watts said complaints about assessment increases had been made in Victoria as well as Oak Bay.

"This 5-per-cent increase was supposed to be over the entire school district, but I'm wondering if every assessor is taking that 5 per cent and applying the entire amount to his own municipality," he said.

"I think we should get in touch with the school district and see if the over-all increase has in fact been held to 5 per cent."

Mayor Hawes said he received several complaints, and others had gone to the municipal administrator. A report would be made to council when all facts had been checked, he said.

An apparent attempt to keep zoning matters out of the public eye was rapped by Ald. Wallace as council considered minutes of zoning committee meetings.

He referred to a minute by number and asked if the public could have information about zoning applications.

Mayor Hawes said procedure was to keep things in committee until a definite recommendation could be brought to council.

Ald. Wallace was referring to an application for a zone application on Beach Drive, where he said the developer was going to be restricted to having the building cover only 17 per cent of the ground.

Ald. Wallace said it also appeared the developer of an apartment at the Olden Home property at Newport and Hamlets was going to be allowed to cover 28 per cent of the property.

Rain Douses Forest Fires

VANCOUVER (CP) — Rain throughout the province during the weekend put out forest fires and lowered dangerously high fire hazards, district foresters said. Up to one inch of rain fell and helped mopping-up operations in the Bella Coola and Prince George areas.

Letter Delivery Soon For Rural Residents

CAMPBELL RIVER — [districts however, officials hope] Mr. Woods hopes that the Campbell River residents, served by postal Rural Route 2 will have a letter carrier delivery within the next few months. Acting Postmaster Charles Wood says that authorization to extend the service has been received from the Vancouver district office.

Districts affected are from across the Campbell River bridge north to Duncan Bay, the B.C. Hydro powerhouse loop, and the balance of Petersen, Evergreen and Homewood Roads.

Two district postal officials have estimated that 750 households will receive the service which will call for two additional letter carriers.

MORE EMPLOYED

When door-to-door delivery was inaugurated July 3, eight carriers were employed. The number has since been raised to 10. They are delivering mail to an estimated 3,100 homes.

The water districts in the areas concerned will be responsible for supplying residents with street names and house numbers. Householders will be requested by the post office department to install door slots or suitable receptacles, and suitable access. It is required that 80 per cent of all households comply with the regulations before door-to-door delivery can be inaugurated, says Mr. Wood.

LATE SUMMER

A large number of people along the proposed routes, whose homes are not close enough to warrant door-to-door delivery, will continue to be served by group boxes. The postal requirements, says Mr. Wood will not apply to those that delivery will be extended as the area builds up. service can be established by late summer.

Funeral Held Saturday

CAMPBELL RIVER—Funeral was held Saturday in the United Church for well-known businessman Alexander Grey McLean, who died at his home May 21. He was 75.

Born in Carleton Place, Ont., Mr. McLean came to Campbell River in 1922, working as a bull-bucker for Elk River Timber Co. for 10 years.

In 1932, he opened McLean's general store, sold it in 1946 and opened McLean's Men's Wear shop in downtown Campbell River.

PAST PRESIDENT

Mr. McLean was past president of the Rotary club and the Chamber of Commerce, one of the founders of the Winter club and long-time member of the fish and game club.

He is survived by his wife, Edna, a daughter, Mrs. Gordon Billing, Vancouver and a sister, Miss Bessie McLean, Victoria.

Boy Dies At Play

A 3-year-old Port Alberni boy accidentally hanged himself with a towel while playing in the washroom at the Alberni Students' Residence, said Port Alberni RCMP Monday.

Mitchell Joseph of the Port Alberni Indian Reserve was found hanging from the towel rack. Police said a number of boys had been playing in the washroom before the accident.

A viewing of the body was held Tuesday evening. Date of the inquest has not yet been set.

New York Train Tunnel

FIRE TRAPS 200

NEW YORK (AP)—A smoky, flash fire disabled a Penn Central railway train Tuesday, trapping 200 commuters deep in a tunnel under the Hudson River. One man was reported killed and 92 persons were injured.

The passengers, trapped momentarily in the darkened and smoke-clogged tunnel, flung open windows and doors and leaped to the ground. They groped cautiously on catwalks, some for as long as 40 minutes, to the New Jersey side of the tunnel.

Police identified the dead man as Will J. Thompson, 63, of Rahway, N.J., a railroad conductor on sick leave, who was riding as a passenger.

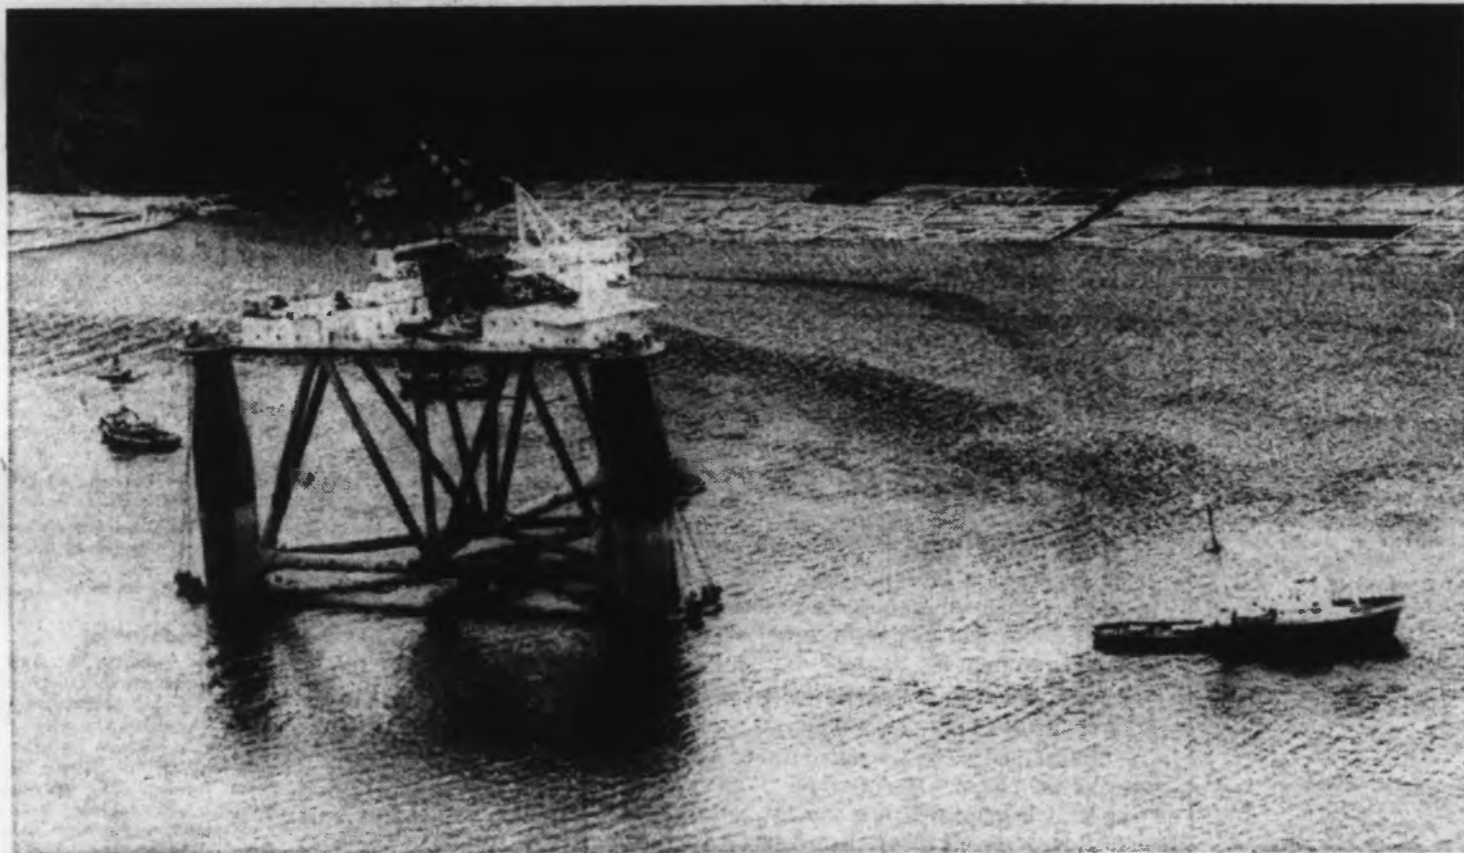

Police said Thompson touched a live third rail after leaving the burning train.

The injured, most suffering minor injuries and smoke inhalation, were treated at five New Jersey hospitals. Some passengers were treated at the scene while others were placed aboard special trains and sent to Newark where a large number of ambulances was assembled. Police said the fire apparently started from a short circuit in the second car.

All traffic through the tunnel in and out of New York was halted, delaying trains to and from Washington, among others. For the most part, the passengers kept calm and walked single file along the catwalks to safety. The first ones out of the tunnel climbed a steep hill to a nearby highway and called for police help.

Towing Epic Starts

Despite slight troubles at beginning of journey, giant oil drilling rig SEDCO 135-F moves down Alberni Inlet on way to New Zealand. Shift breezes, and minor towing problems, delayed tug William Barends from starting voyage from Port Alberni Monday. However both tug and rig were reported doing well Tuesday. Rig, which was built in Victoria, will have to cover 5,500 miles before reaching destination.—(Agnes Flett)

Snowy Mt. Baker

Car and Skis Search Clue

GLACIER, Wash. (AP)—A 10-man search party encountered blowing snow on the southwest side of Mt. Baker Tuesday while combing the 10,778-foot peak for four Vancouver residents missing since Sunday.

But volunteers from the B.C. search and rescue team and the Whatcom County Rescue Council reported finding a car believed to have been used by the four and some skis. The car was found at the end of a forestry road and the skis were located further up the mountain. Bruce Kirkland, district ranger for the forest service here, identified the four as Mario Strim, John Delmyer, Judy Small and Maggie Secrett. All are believed to be about 27. Kirkland said the four apparently drove from near Glacier on a forest service road to the foot of the Northern Cascades mountain and began their ascent Sunday morning. When they failed to descend by 3 a.m. Monday, a friend reported them missing. The four were "dressed in ski clothes, but it was not known whether they carried food, Kirkland said.

After Coup Comes Treason Trials

Sudan Corruption Charged

CAIRO (UPI)—The revolutionary government of Sudan, describing the United States as a "threat" to Arabs, announced Wednesday it will put deposed government ministers and military officers on trial for alleged corruption.

Other opponents of the regime will be punished for treason, it said.

An official statement broadcast over Khartoum radio also said new premier Abubakar Awadallah's government, which seized power Sunday, had recognized communist East Germany and met for undisclosed reasons with the Red Chinese charge d'affaires. The Middle East News Agency reported from Khartoum, meanwhile, that East Germany responded by offering to supply arms to the Sudan.

Al Ahram, the semi-official Egyptian newspaper, interviewed the military strongman of the new regime, Col. Gaafar el-Numeiri, and quoted him as saying "we shall shortly create civilian and military courts before which those accused of bribery and corruption will stand trial." He said the defendants would include deposed government members and senior army officers dismissed for opposition to the coup.

Khartoum radio delivered the criticism of the U.S. and West Germany in one of a string of broadcasts that brought the outside world up to date on

Language Bill: 'Now I Know My Friends' Says Stanfield

Prairie Tories Revolt

By MARJORIE NICHOLS

OTTAWA (Special) — Robert Stanfield is facing the first major crisis of his leadership in the wake of a Commons vote Tuesday night which saw 17 members of the 72-man Conservative caucus break party line to vote against the official languages bill.

The 17 Tories, including former prime minister John Diefenbaker, cast the only votes against the controversial bill, which was given second reading by an overwhelming majority of 197 to 17.

Diefenbaker, 73, was ousted at a 1967 party leadership convention which elected Stanfield as his successor. But some Conservatives have never recognized the change in leadership. The rebels who voted against Stanfield's wishes and against the bill comprised all five Conservatives from Manitoba, all five from Saskatchewan, six from Alberta and one, Robert Coates, from Nova Scotia.

MORE REBELS

The number of defections from the party policy as laid down by Stanfield was greater than the Tories had expected. They had hoped that at least six Prairie MPs would stay out of the Commons and thus reduce the vote against the bill to 10 or 11.

Stanfield took the blow philosophically. "It's great to know who your friends are," he told reporters.

STILL DRAMATIC

While second reading votes have been de-emphasized under new Commons rules — they were formerly considered approval in principle — Tuesday's vote was in keeping with the tradition of dramatic second readings.

The bill now goes to committee for possible amendments before third reading and the final passage test.

Stanfield and the 40 other Conservatives who rose to vote for the bill were given a thundering round of applause from government, Creditiste and NDP benches.

As the caucus rebels rose one by one to register their disapproval, the Conservative leaders sat silently, staring straight ahead at the Liberal benches. What embittered several members of the pro-Stanfield group was the fact that it was

U.S. Quits Bloody Mountain

SAIGON (AP) — United States paratroopers today abandoned Dong Ap Bia, a 3,000-foot mountain they seized a week ago in a battle that touched off a storm of controversy. (See earlier story Page 3.)

Troopers of the 101st Airborne Division seized the mountain May 20 after 10 days of bloody fighting that cost 50 Americans killed and 300 wounded.

The American casualties stirred criticism of the assault in Congress, but the U.S. command claimed it was a "fine operation" with more than 600 North Vietnamese soldiers killed.

The paratroopers "have completed their search of the mountain and now are continuing their reconnaissance in force mission through the A Shau Valley," a spokesman for the 101st Airborne Division said.

Bitter Runoff

Negro Runner Losing In Los Angeles Vote

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Incumbent Sam Yorty surged ahead of city councilman Thomas Bradley today in a bitterly fought mayoralty election.

Partial returns at midnight from 1,221 of the city's 2,890 voting stations gave Yorty 54.81 per cent to Bradley's 45.18 per cent. The tally was Yorty 196,230, Bradley 161,725.

City clerk Rex Layton estimated that close to 80 per cent of the 1,127,224 registered voters had cast ballots in a record-smashing turnout.

It was the greatest vote for a municipal election in Los Angeles history. The previous high was 66 per cent in the primary election of the same mayoral race April 1.

Los Angeles voters gave their verdict after a bruising campaign in which Bradley's race was a major factor.

Yorty urged voters to "keep Los Angeles the way we want it." He predicted mass resignations from the largely white police department if Bradley — a retired police lieutenant — captured the mayor's office.

PRICKLY CHARGE

Yorty also questioned Bradley's ability to keep order "on the campuses and in the community," a prickly charge in a city still living down the Watts riots of 1965.

Bradley, the Texas-born son of a Pullman car porter, trained his fire on alleged corruption during Yorty's second four-year term in city hall.

● Mars? Maybe in 10 years. Page 30.

MIAMI (AP)—The Apollo 10 astronauts carried the "language of the street" to the moon, a Bible college president charged Tuesday. He called on them to repent their "profanity, vulgarity and blasphemy."

Dr. Larry Poland, president of non-denominational Miami Bible College, said he sent a telegram to President Nixon and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration asking that the three astronauts apologize for their language.

"I've gotten calls from many people who were astounded that they were broadcasting things like that 240,000 miles from the moon when it's the kind of language you expect to see on the restroom wall," Poland said. "It was in serious had taste and indiscreet, I felt.

Poland, in his telegram, asked that "each astronaut who used such language be required to issue a public statement of apology . . . and I further request that all military and civil decoration of these men be withheld until such public apology is made."

Racing Barns Burn

VANCOUVER (CPI)—Firemen early today were fighting a three-alarm blaze in the stable area of Exhibition Park, on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds.

At least 10 fire engines were at the scene, and flames were shooting more than 100 feet in the air. About 600 thoroughbreds are stabled in the area, some of which were reported running loose.

At least two stabling barns were ablaze, but it was believed all of the horses were led to safety.

There is horse racing at the park on Mondays, Wednesdays, Friday and Saturdays.
